Car dealership moves to Antioch

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

The Village of Antioch and the Department of Community Development announced the opening of another car dealership in Antioch. Lake Villa Chrysler, Plymouth, Jeep, Eagle will move operations from their current location in Lake Villa to Antioch.

Owners Paul Bach and Mike Lesser announced they will be moving the dealership to the new location in the Village of Antioch on Route 173 east of the Antioch Township Building.

"We are real anxious to get there," said Bach. "We hope to be in within five months." Bach admitted that time period was fairly rapid. "It's ambitious," Bach chuckled. "It will be before the end of the year."

The new dealership will encompass roughly 17,000- to 18,000- square feet on a 6-acre parcel of land. According to Claude LeMere, community development director, while the entire parcel of land is actually 60 acres, and there were some wetlands on the entire parcel, no wetlands will be disturbed where the dealership will be built.

The owner of the parcel is Terry Upton, owner of Upton See CARS page A10

Brothers come to rescue of neighbors home, dog

Jim and Becky Lass have some very good neighbors. As a result, their house did not burn to the ground and their dog is alive today.

On June 30, Jim and Becky went to see a movie at the Grayslake Theater. Three neighborhood brothers, Mark, 14, Matt, 11, and David, 9, Loiacano, spotted smoke and saw an orange glow coming from the Lass home on Springwell Avenue in Antioch.

The boys returned to their home and reported the fire to their mother, who dialed 911. While they were waiting for the fire trucks, the boys spotted the Lass dog overcome by smoke.

"The smoke was so thick I had to crawl to get the dog," said

Mark. As a result of the quick action of the boys, Kelsey, the dog, survived.

Witnesses say the fire destroyed the kitchen of the home. While fire department officials were unavailable for comment, it is thought the fire was the result of a wiring problem. The heater to the outdoor pool was connected in the kitchen and it is believed that the wiring became overheated.

The Fox Lake Fire Department assisted the Antioch Fire Department at the scene, with Lake Villa on stand-by. Springwell Road is located off Grass Lake Road, roughly five miles from the Antioch Department.

Cathy Milovanovic contributed to the story.

Bicyclist escapes fatal attraction abduction

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

An Antioch woman was rescued by Racine County Sheriff's Department officers after two men abducted her from Antioch. The two men, Jamie Morales, 22, and Eulatin Rosales, 35, are currently facing extradition from Wisconsin. Both men live at 916 Main Street in Antioch.

The woman, 18, was abducted at 4:20 a.m., June 29, on her way to work at McDonalds. While riding her bike, she was forced off the road. According to the Racine County Sheriff's Department, she was forced into the backseat of the car and her bike was tossed into the trunk.

The motive for the abduction was apparently a nearly fatal attraction. Police said Morales admitted to being infatuated with the woman, however, the woman told police she had only spoken to him once.

"That's pretty much it," said Racine County Sheriff's Officer James Scherff. "He was in love with her from the first time he saw her."

From the time of the abduction, the woman was held only one hour before police See ABDUCTION page A10

Head on boat accident attributed to drinking

TINA L. SWIECH

When one boater literally "ran over" another, Lake County Sheriff's police came back on duty.

Shortly before 3:30 a.m., July 3, more than an hour after sheriff's patrol units ended for the day, a Lake Villa man was seriously injured when an Addison resident in a larger water craft hit him head on. The Addison resident's Bayliner was reportedly "up on a plane"—boating lingo for high rate of speed, according to Capt. Willie Smith.

Although there is no telling exactly how fast Philip D.

Anello's 20-foot Bayliner was traveling, it struck the "low" Starcraft ski boat that was "puffing" or idling on Fox Lake just west of Stanton Point.

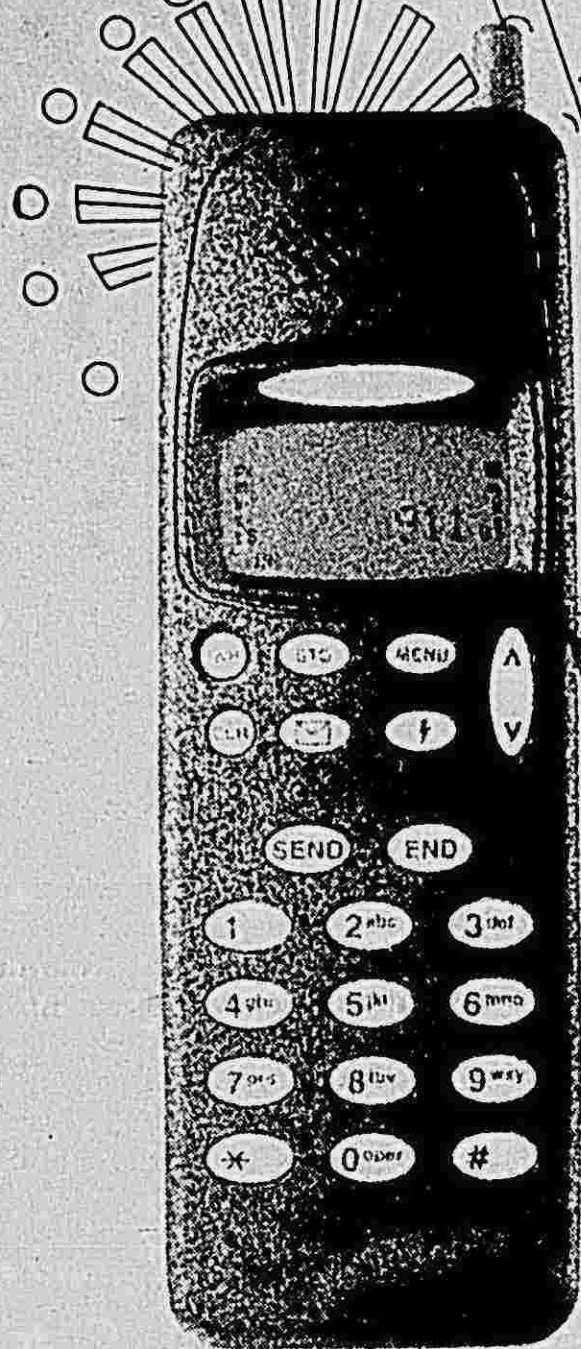

Another boat spotted the accident and helped the victims to a parking lot off a bar on Stanton Point Rd. Fox Lake rescue rushed John Edwards to the Northern Illinois Medical Center in McHenry where he is being treated for a broken neck.

Reports state Anello and his passenger, 32-year-old Catherine Armentrout of Barrington and Edwards' passenger, 27-year-old Nicholas Weber, of Antioch suffered minor injuries. See DRINKING page A10

All were winners at Fourth of July fun

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

While not everyone won $10,000 at Antioch's Independence Day celebration, between the opening parade and fireworks grand finale, everyone was a winner. Despite the cooler and sometimes rainy weather, the celebration organizers report a good turn-out for the two-day event.

The parade started the festivities off with a bang with marching bands, floats, and flags. Then it was on to the Children's Festival at William's Park.

Children participated in fair games, field games, and even had their faces painted. Snookie the Clown was on hand to keep the kids entertained, and a petting zoo full of animals and pony rides. There were even folks taking advantage of the special 25-cent swim in the 60 degree temperatures.

Sunday brought the Firecracker Tournaments. Winners of the 3-point boys basketball were Nicky Freeman in the 13 and under category and Cal Cruickshank in the 14 to 20 year group. Men's winners included Dan Adams, Joe Cermak, and Larry Denzel. Christine Lynch, Rachelle Hauser, and Tammi Brady were winners in the 3-point girls basketball tournament.

The Baskin and Robbins Team took first place in softball and Jessie Ulch was the winner of the casting tournament. Spikingly Yours took first place in the volleyball tournament, with the Limerick Team following in second place.

Ernie Theiry and Phil Lindberg were the top horseshoe tossers, with Jim and Roger Hallwas taking second place. Mike Malicki and Cosimo Giannetto came in third place.

No Fourth of July is complete without some apple pie. And, you cannot get a better piece of traditional apple pie than from Pat Folbrink's kitchen. Barbara Regan took first place in the apple pie contest in the Dutch apple category. Lorraine Lemke and Carol Miller came in second in the traditional category, while Sharon Oldenburger took second place in the Dutch apple contest.

The fireworks, later Sunday night, were again one of the best displays in the area. PM&L also pitched in with their great rendition of George Washington and the Statue of Liberty.

By the way, someone really did win $10,000. The winners of the Community Action Now raffle were announced Sunday night. Don Marski turned up as the winner of $10,000. Sharon Becker won $1,000 as did co-winners Ken Wermeling and Glenn Hendrickson. Bernd Jung, of Jensen House, was the fourth prize winner of $500. The tickets to the CAN raffle were $100 each and the group sold 260.

Factory worker killed

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

A Round Lake Beach factory worker died when he was electrocuted by the machine he was working on.

Erik Peterson, 19, a machine operator, was killed last Wednesday while working on a hot wire cutting machine which uses electrical wires to cut plastic, according to Brian LaCourse, operations manager at Tuscarora Plastics in Antioch.

Company officials are still trying to piece together what happened. According to LaCourse the machine is working properly. He said this is the first major accident at the plant.

"He was an excellent employee. It is a great loss. We all liked him," LaCourse said.

LaCourse said investigations are continuing but it's still unknown what happened. He said other employees didn't see it happen directly but did hear him and shut off his machine.

LaCourse said Antioch Rescue Squad was called at 10:17 p.m. Peterson died at Victory Hospital about an hour later.

The United States Occupational Safety and Health Administration continue to investigate the death.

Peterson, a 1993 graduate of Round Lake Senior High School has worked for the company for about two months.

Peterson is survived by his parents Guy and Karen; a sister, Julie; and his maternal grandfather, Burgess Dean Sr.

Loon Lakes purchases new weed harvester

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

John J. Bambule, president of the Loon Lakes Management Association (LLMA), announced the purchase of a new aquatic weed harvester, which will replace the old harvester purchased eight years ago. The new harvester, made by Aquarius Systems, is expected to be an improvement on the old harvester.

"The new unit should arrive in about four weeks," said Bambule. "This new harvester is capable of removing 25 percent more weeds per load, increasing the efficiency and improving operating costs."

"LLMA is proud that years ago it chose to keep our lakes chemical free, especially since the disastrous fish kill that occurred on Lindenhurst's Lake Linden, where they had contracted Scientific Aquatic Weed Control to chemically treat the lake to control weeds," Bambule continued.

Bambule was referring to the recent fish kill in Lindenhurst where it was estimated 3,000 fish died after a treatment of Diquat. In addition, 50 pounds of copper sulfate was added to the lake. As a result of the chemical treatments and high temperatures, the oxygen level in the lake was decreased, causing the fish to die.

Bambule admitted that LLMA's decision to commit to harvesting was not easy and was very controversial at the time. Many alternative methods, options, and opinions were strongly expressed.

Harvesting has its drawbacks. Primarily, this process must be repeated continuously during the water sport season. Some aquatic weeds plaguing the area have the unique capacity to take root after it has been cut. If cut weeds are dropped from the harvester into the water, they simply root elsewhere. Also, many areas simply cannot afford the price of a harvester.

According to Bambule, the threat of a long-term chemical disaster far out-weighs the "short-sighted gain of believing chemicals are the solution to all the weed problems." The group relies heavily on the advice of the Lakes Management Unit of the Lake County Health Department, and the health department is a member of LLMA's advisory board.

LLMA recycles the harvested weeds for use as a natural fertilizer. Bambule expressed his thanks to local farmers who have been requesting the harvest weeds for their fields. According to Bambule, "We are now part of the community contributing to a resource recycling program."

LLMA will be selling their old harvester, which will offset the cost of the new one. The new harvester will cost $64,000.

Buy down ordinance to change

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The Antioch Village Board had the first reading of the amended downtown TIF District "Buy-Down" loan program ordinance, Tuesday night. The interest from these loans are subsidized up to as much as 5 percent, when available. The loans are limited to properties located in the redevelopment project area.

One of the changes in the ordinance expands the use of the loans for not only the improvement of the facade, but will now include the entire building. The original ordinance limited the use of the money to include facade repair, facade remodeling, certain structural repairs, and related interior work such as central air conditioning installation to eliminate window units, installation of energy efficient heating systems, smoke and fire alarms, and new wall, ceiling, and floor coverings, plumbing and other fixed assets.

Another change in the ordinance will be the removal of the limit amounts that could be expended by the Redevelopment Committee for the loan program. Now, the amount of money given to an applicant by the village will be set solely by the mayor and village trustees.

Applicants will also be limited to where they can obtain a loan. With the changes to the ordinance, the program can be utilized only by local banks. These banks include State Bank of the Lakes, First Chicago Bank of Antioch, First National Bank of Antioch, and the Bank of Waukegan, Antioch branch.

ACHS students part of skid demonstration

Students at Waukegan and Antioch Community High Schools learned firsthand that you can't "stop on a dime" during a special auto skid demonstration put on by the Country Companies insurance group.

Dan Gerber, a safety expert with the Country Companies, conducted the program in cooperation with Reuben Collier and Rich Frankson, agents in the Country Companies Northwest Lake Agency.

The program is designed by the Country Companies to demonstrate the relationship between traveling speed, reaction time and braking distances. Part of the program puts students and teachers behind the wheel of a specially equipped vehicle, testing their reaction time and comparing stopping distances at speeds of 20, 30 and 40 miles per hour (mph). Braking distances can increase as much as four times between 20 and 40 mph.

Other students worked to mark reaction and braking distances and to record the results. Onlooking students were given charts to help them compare their fellow students' and teachers' braking distances with average braking distances.

Prior to the outside demonstrations, Gerber talked to students about the importance of defensive driving skills, safe driving tips, and problems and situations particular to young drivers.

"Young drivers like the freedom that being able to drive a car gives them. But with that freedom comes the responsibility to be a defensive driver," says Gerber. According to the National Safety Council, improper driving is the cause of over 50 percent of all fatal accidents in the U.S.

Gerber adds, "A mistake behind the wheel of a car is not like a mistake on a test that can be erased and corrected. One mistake can cost young drivers many freedoms—including their lives or those of others involved."

ACHS sends delegates to NEA annual meeting

Thomas Herziger and Sue Schmitt, teachers at Antioch Community High School, attended the 132nd annual meeting of the National Education Association (NEA), July 1 through 6. Herziger represented ACHSEA and Schmitt represented Illinois as a state delegate. Some 14,000 delegates, exhibitors and guests from around the nation gathered in New Orleans for the annual meeting, whose theme this year was "Public Education is a Public Trust."

Schmitt served on the Resolutions Committee which recommended the policy statements of the association to the delegates for adoption. The week-long event culminated in the four-day Representative Assembly, July 3 through 6, where Herziger, Schmitt and some 9,000 other voting delegates determined policies to guide the 2.1-million member association over the coming year. This year's delegates discussed and debated dozens of vital issues in American education, such as privatization, integrating special education and medically fragile students into regular classrooms, health care, safe schools, education funding and school accountability.

Delegates also voted on amendments to NEA's constitution, bylaws, resolutions and legislative agenda. Schmitt stated "I enjoyed participating in the heated debates. The subject of merger with the AFT generated some very interesting dialogue."

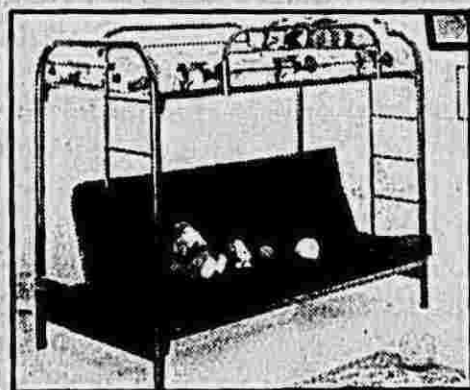

Herziger stated, "I was happy to help Illinois stay number one in the NEA PAC fund raising drive."

Recovery wished for Daisy Hanssen

Get well soon

I would like to extend a get-well wish to Daisy Hanssen from her many family members, friends, and also from The Lizard and readers. Daisy is now home recovering from her recent surgery and the doctor says she has to hold herself back from doing things until fully recovered. This type of directive is very difficult for her to follow, as she is a very active time. Before you know it, you will be back in the saddle again, as good as new.

More thank yous

The Antioch Jaycees would like to thank the following individuals for their cash donations which helped make their recent fund raiser a huge success—Ray and Marie Brausam, Vivian Brausam, Elaine and Bob Lasky, JoAnne Weber and Jim Bletsch. They would also like to thank Mars Cleaning Services for their donation of a raffle prize. The Jaycees is a fine organization and donations are always welcome and needed to help maintain the many fine programs and events sponsored by them. If you would like to make a donation to the Antioch Jaycees, please make your check payable to them and mail it to the Jaycees Fundraising committee, P.O. Box 254, Antioch, IL 60002.

Whales?

According to two-year old Alyssa Janelle Filips, there are "Whales in the Chain O' Lakes". I suppose a big, old, ugly Carp would look like a whale to a two-year-old. When Alyssa, Aunti Donna, and I sat feeding little bread pieces to the bluegills nesting in our sandy beach, about six ugly Carp came in to share the feast. When Alyssa saw the Carp surface and suck up a really big piece of bread, she exclaimed "MeeMee it's a Whale!" I told her it was a "Carp Whale". So now Alyssa enjoys feeding bread scraps to the birds, ducks, geese, little fish and the "Carp Whale". I might mention here, that MeeMee enjoys doing all of the above too. The next evening I was home alone. After doing a little yard work, I meandered down to the pier with a few slices of white bread and when the "Carp Whales" began poking up their ugly heads to feed, I continued the activity for about thirty minutes. It doesn't take much to make "an old woman" happy!

Go

Try it, you'll like it. Attention Grannies and Grandpas residing in the Grass Lake School District. The next time you are in charge of the little ones, take him, her or them up to the beautiful new Grass Lake School Playground. I suggest you bring a jug of lemonade and maybe a few snacks, as the little ones may want to stay awhile. I knew the playground was very nice, but until I observed my own little granddaughter enjoying the many different activities available on the equipment, I didn't realize what a truly wonderful addition to the school the playground is, not to mention asset to the community in general. The equipment features three slides (small, medium, large), a climbing chain, a suspension bridge, climbing spring, sliding hand bar, many swings, a big climbing dome, a clock, steering wheel, tic tac toe game, three beautiful picnic tables and a row of hand-over-hand climbing rings. Once again the Grass Lake School "Friends of the Playground" would like to thank all of the businesses, organizations and individuals for their patron ad contributions.

Silly statements

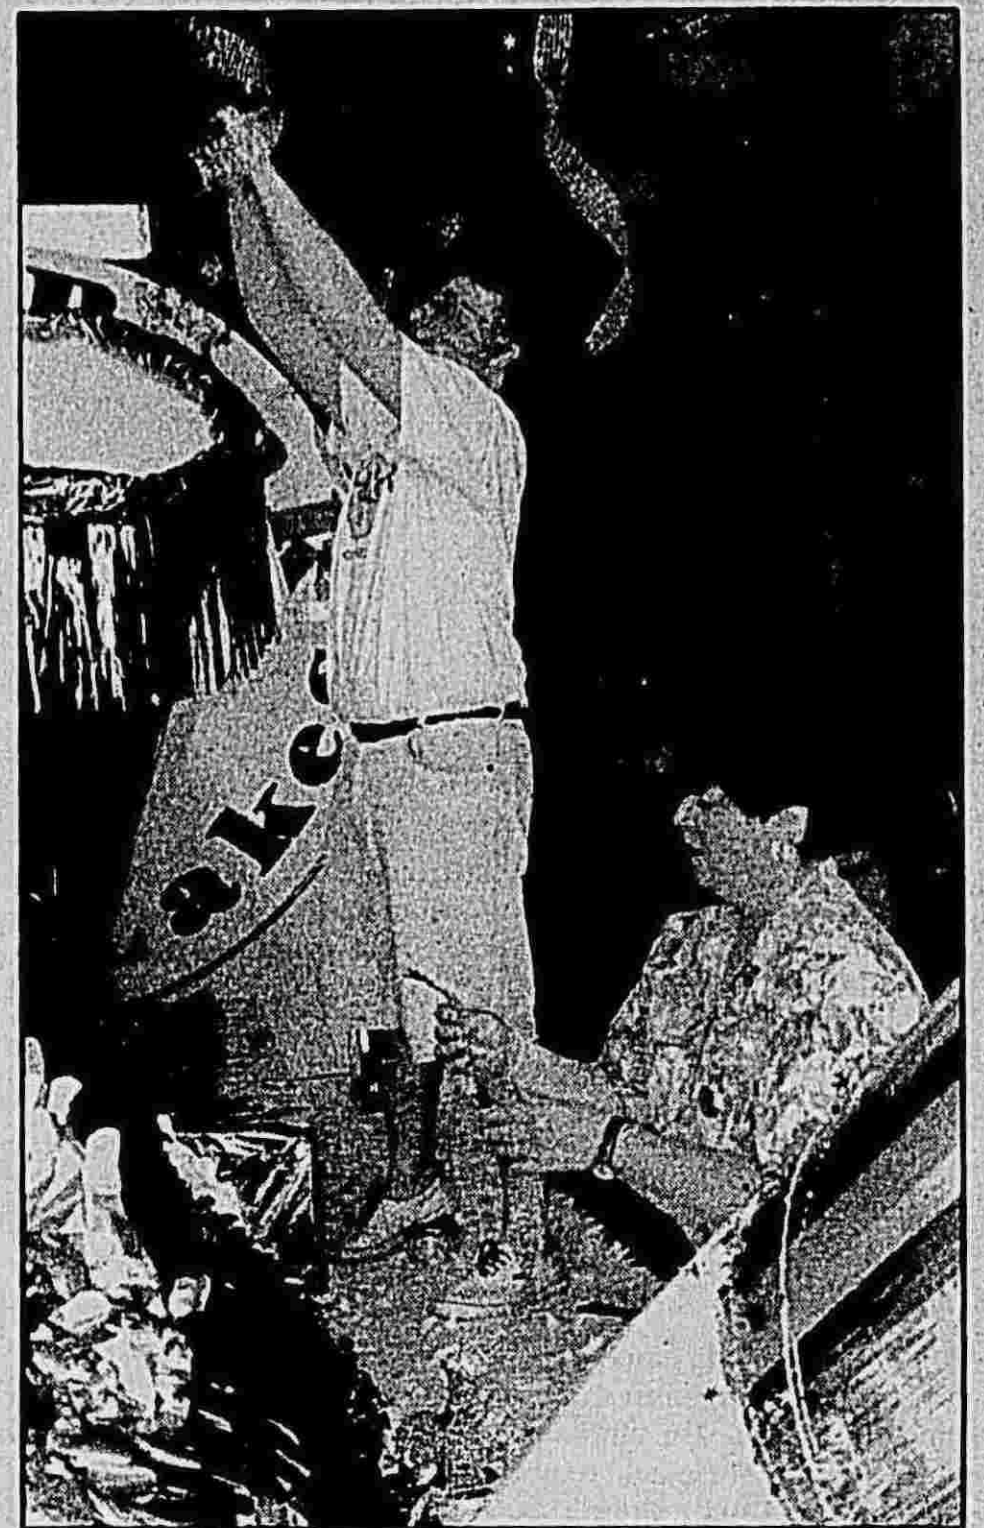

Did you ever say something really dumb and try to reel your words back in before others noticed. It is a total impossibility. Most people usually own up to it of their own accord in order to cover their bloopers. Such was the case with a "nameless" phone pal of mine. "Miss Nameless" said "A memo should be sent in writing." It sounded fine to me until "Miss Nameless" said "Well, naturally it would be in writing, how else would you send a memo?" I guess Morse Code could be a possibility. That reminded me of another silly phrase "I thought to myself." Maybe someday, I will try "thinking to someone else"!

Thanks

The Grass Lake School "Friends of the Playground" committee would like to thank the Antioch Township Department for their fine support of the playground.

That's it

Remember to take a moment or two out of your busy summer schedule to make a call to The Lizard with a tidbit or two. Till then, be happy!

Shop Antioch Finding the perfect fit

Here are some great ideas to keep in mind when shopping for that perfect outfit. Sometimes it's easy to find what appears to be just the right outfit, but when you combine the look of the outfit on the hanger with the way it fits, you can often be disappointed. The ideas are courtesy of Flo Heiselmann from the Clothes Connection, located on Main Street. Flo said to remember that God makes—but apparel shapes and beautiful comes in all sizes.

Doesn't that sound great! Take a long look at what God has given you, accept it with love, then get to work and put it to work for you. Learn to show off your best attributes. The following are a few helpful guidelines.

The key element to be considered by the "something more" shopper is pounds. Keep garments loose enough so as not to distort lines. Keep stripes narrow.

Solid separates with contrasting color tops and bottoms, will create a broken line, cutting your silhouette in half.

Jackets...long, fitted or slightly unconstructed, in a fingertip length will look nice, as well as fitted sheaths and shifts. Long over lean adds height, and creates an illusion. Keep light and bright colors near your face, and darker on the bottom.

The most slimming skirt style for most size 16 or over ladies is usually an A-Line, which is more comfortable with an elastic waist. Straight Skirts are good, as long as the hipline is not too tight, and the hemline is not too long.

The less fuss and fabric on the fullness of your body, the better you look. So forget pockets...the best pocket is no pocket...at all costs avoid a rounded, curved pocket which will add inches and pounds to its location.

Long jackets are preferred for covering a multitude of sins, if it is the right jacket for your body shape. Single breasted designs fit almost every "body."

A cardigan is ideal because it seems to be the most slimming. If collarless it can minimize a full bust, trim a full hipline, cover broad shoulders, and lengthen a short neck.

Hope this helps you with your wardrobe selection. The right fit is important no matter what the garment. The better you feel in a garment, the better you'll look. You'll walk with more confidence and give the impression that you feel good about yourself.

House Republicans propose spending cuts

House Democratic leaders are very concerned about the number of members who are signing a discharge petition designed to give House members an unprecedented opportunity to reduce federal spending.

Needless to say, the Democratic leadership opposes the bill known as the "A to Z Spending Cuts Plan." The legislation would force the House of Representatives to hold a special 56-hour session. During that time, any member could propose a single cut in federal spending. The proposal would be debated and voted on in one hour. This would permit as many as 56 spending cut proposals during the special session.

Two-hundred-eighteen members must sign the discharge petition to bring the measure to the floor of the House. Right now, it is bottled up in the Rules Committee. Democrats control the Rules Committee by a two-to-one-plus-one margin—9 to 4.

As this is written, over 200 members have signed the discharge petition and its backers are convinced they will be able to gain the signatures they need to reach the 218 number.

You can well imagine why the Democratic leadership is opposed to the legislation. It would effectively remove its control over 56 spending items. And if the members conclude such a special session was successful and worthwhile, it could be employed more than once in a session of Congress.

Pork barrel projects would be in particular danger as members would be able to single out some of the worst projects. Usually, the necessary federal funds for these projects are thrown into a large appropriations bill and shoved through Congress.

If the A to Z Plan were to go into effect, a pork barrel project would be subject to a close look and a recorded vote. Individual members would have to go home to their constituents and defend obvious wasteful spending if they voted in favor of pork barrel spending.

Foreign aid, certainly not a favorite of millions of Americans, could be the subject of cuts. Such action would leave the White House, the Democratic congressional leadership and the striped pants brigade at the State Department speechless. Well, those fellows would never be left speechless, of course, but they'd be mighty unhappy.

And those liberal spenders who like to throw money at domestic problems but oppose defense expenditures, would have an opportunity to strike out at some of their favorite defense targets, too.

If the A to Z Spending Cuts Plan gets to the floor of the House, many members of Congress will no longer be able to just talk a good game. They'll have to vote one, also.

Village to send appreciation letter to former bank president

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The Antioch Village Board will be drafting and sending a letter of appreciation to Carl McWherter, former president of First Chicago Bank of Antioch. McWherter, who was transferred to the Wilmette office of First Chicago, was extremely active in the community.

McWherter was a member of the Economic Development Commission, the Antioch Rotary Club, as well as a member of Community Action Now. He was one of the moving forces behind last year's Concert in the Park series. The bank sponsored free concerts to village residents in Williams Park several times last summer.

Jeff Mulder has been selected to replace McWherter at the bank. The village board approved a motion to have Mulder complete McWherter's term with the Economic Development Commission.

The board accepted the resignation of McWherter "with regret."

Properties of Evanston. Upton, who has developed several shopping center sites and owns an auto dealership in Evanston, will be developing the property.

"It is a win, win situation for Antioch," said LeMere. "Substantial increases in sales tax for the village, substantial increases in real estate tax to help schools, more jobs for residents, and each new commercial development helps stabilize and eventually reduce real estate taxes for residents without adding any additional students."

The relocation of the dealership is a result of sometimes intense negotiations on the part of Mayor Marilyn Shineflug, Village Administrator Tim Wells, and LeMere. According to Wells, the deal was struck after many months of negotiations.

stopped the trio. "She had been struggling with them for most of the trip," said Scherff. Apparently she had been grabbing the steering wheel and the men had pulled over to the side of the road. At that point, Racine officers stopped to investigate.

According to the report, the men did not have a weapon. However, the woman said one of the men told her that they had not decided whether they were going to keep her for a day or more, or just kill her.

"Statements were made about harming her physically and killing her," said Scherff. Both men deny making that statement.

At this time, both men are charged with false imprisonment charges in Wisconsin. It is likely the men will also face charges in Illinois.

According to Deputy States Attorney Steve McCollum, it is likely Wisconsin will proceed with their case before the men are extradited to Illinois to face charges. "I assume they will hold an extradition hearing in Wisconsin," said McCollum. "They will probably proceed on their charges first. We will wait for them to complete them."

The men could face charges of kidnapping or aggravated kidnapping in Illinois.

ATF agents raid gas station

ALEC JUNG

The owner of Stan's Citgo and Auto Center was charged with selling some highly explosive materials.

Stan Gallus, 46, was expected to turn himself into Lake Villa Police on Wednesday morning. Police will charge him with unlawful use of weapons, according to Lake Villa Police Chief John Debevic.

Agents from the Bureau of Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms, Lake Villa Police Lindenhurst Police and Lake County Sheriff Department raided the station last Wednesday with a search warrant.

Police confiscated 20 M-1000s and 300 M-500s, according to Debevic. He said ATF officials told him the M-1000s are equivalent to 2/3 a stick of dynamite and the M-500s are the same as 1/3 stick of dynamite.

For police the location of the fireworks made the situation even more dangerous.

"I was very much concerned,"

Debevic said. "A fire in the station could have taken out the whole corner."

An informant tipped off police of the sales. An informant bought some of the illegal fireworks and the search warrant was obtained, according to Debevic.

Debevic said the explosives were found throughout the garage and office area.

Debevic said this was by far the largest amount of this type of fireworks he ever remembers being found in Lake Villa.

Test results showed both drivers were over the .10 legal blood-alcohol limit for intoxication in Illinois. Anello registered a .14, and Edwards registered .16, according to the Lake County Sheriff's Marine Safety Unit.

Both were charged with OUI, Operating Under the Influence.

The marine unit agrees this was an exception, to an exceptionally calm Fourth of July weekend on the Chain.

So far this summer only seven people have been arrested for drunken boating including the two from this accident. Also, no fatalities have been reported on the Chain O' Lakes this year.

Capt. Smith attributes much of this simply to safer boating. The captain related a rumor that's been going around that says you must take a boating safety course in order to operate a boat. This of course is not true, said Smith, "But I'd like to see this rumor continue," he added.

There has been a marked increase in people attending and graduating from boating courses, per the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, said Smith. If you do take a class, it is true that in most cases your boat insurance will be discounted from 10 to 15 percent, the captain said.

Slithery suspect is tough to catch

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

Lake Villa Police were called to an apartment to capture a fugitive they weren't trained to catch in police academy.

Their suspect was a snake. A 5-foot long, chocolate Burmese python escaped from her owner's glass enclosure spurring a mad scramble in the Lake Villa Terrace Apartment to catch the snake.

Cari Henselee, owner, said she caught her snake but it turned on her and bit her in the finger.

"I had her in back of the head and she got away. She struck at me and bit me in the finger," Henselee said.

Henselee said she just came back from vacation and the snake appeared to have been mistreated by the person who watched her house. She said the bite hurt, but she was OK.

It took over 45 minutes to catch the snake. While Lake Villa and Lindenhurst Police secured the area, a Lake Villa Rescue Squad member and Jason Rubenstein, a friend of Henselee, attempted to catch the snake.

Rubenstein said he and the paramedic tried to trap the python which had gotten underneath the refrigerator and then behind the cabinets in the kitchen.

The two were able to corner the snake as an animal control specialist came. The specialist grabbed the snake and secured it in a bag.

Now the 1-year-old snake will live comfortably in a new home with the specialist who wanted to keep the snake.

"I wanted to get rid of her anyway. I couldn't take care of her anymore," Henselee said.

Henselee recommended people who want to buy a snake should do research and make a decision carefully.

"They can be bad news. It scares you. I think I will stick with the fish," Henselee said.

Power concludes season, takes fourth in tourney

The Lindenhurst Power Girls U-13 had a pretty hectic week playing eight games to wrap-up their spring season.

On June 14, the Power traveled down to Arlington Heights where they played the Aces losing a close 2-1 contest. The Power gave up two early goals before coming to life.

The Power rebounded before the end of the first half with a goal scored by Kristen Hungarland on an assist by Jourdan Phillips. Some aggressive play by Kristen Gamlin kept the ball in play and assisted in leading to the goal. The Power continued to dominate the second half, and outshot Arlington Heights, 20-4. An apparent tying goal in the final two minutes of the game was called back on an offside.

The Power then traveled to Rockford to play in the Girls Watermelon Tournament which was held June 17 through 19. A scheduling error resulted in the Power being given tie in their first game against Rockford.

On Saturday the Power played the Neenah, Wis., Blast and came away with a 1-0 victory. Jamie Wismer scored on a headball from a corner kick off the foot of Tracie Foster. Strong defensive play by Katie Anderson, Kristen Gamlin, Jenny Porter and Esther Scheurer shut down the Blast and kept them from mounting any real scoring threats.

The Power next played the Elmhurst blaze and earned a 2-0 win. The scoring was provided by Teri Laroche and Jamie Wismer with an assist from Maureen Moran.

A key to this win was the strong mid-field play provided by Nicci Estep, Kristina Gianglorgi, Kristen Hungarland and Cara Robinson which kept the Neenah team off balance throughout the game.

On Sunday, the Power then took on the Coke Wave from St. Louis, Mo, and came away with a 2-1 victory after winning a shoot-out (3-2). The game was tied at the end of regulation 1-1 on a goal scored by Teri Laroche and assisted by Jamie Wismer.

The Power defense played a strong game with Esther Scheurer and Jenny Porter making several game saving plays. Scoring in the shoot-out were Kristen Gamlin, Jamie Wismer and Kristina Gianglorgi.

Jenny Barbera played an excellent game in the nets making 15 saves and stopping the Wave in the shoot-out. This win placed the Power in the medal round.

The next opponent was the host Rockford United and the Power came out on the short end of a 2-1 game although outshooting Rockford 12-7.

There may have been a bit of a let up after the earlier shoot-out victory, and Rockford scored just three minutes into the game and added a second goal a few minutes later.

The Power offense then rebounded on a goal scored by Sarah Richardson and assisted by Jourdan Phillips. The Power dominated the play for the rest of the game but was unable to achieve the tying score.

The Power then took on the Palatine Celtics in the consolation game which was won by Palatine 3-0.

The Celtics played an aggressive game, and the Power was hampered by injuries to three of their defenders.

With the loss the Power took fourth place out of the 28 team field. This is the best showing ever achieved by a Lindenhurst girls team at the Rockford Tournament.

The Power then came back Monday night to play NPD White (Naperville) at home to conclude the regular season.

The Power won that game 5-2 with all five goals being scored by Jamie Wismer, and assists coming from Jenny Barbera, Tracie Foster and Sarah Richardson.

With this victory, the Power finished their spring season in second place with a record of 6-4. They will now take off a few weeks before starting practice for the fall season.

These sixth through eighth-grade players received first-place medals in the Lindenhurst Soccer Inaugural tournament. They are: Sarah Rimkus, Rebecca Bleyer, Esther Scheurer.

Raiders compete locally

In earlier local games, the Raiders (U-16) softball team played Marnego and faced 2-hit pitching by the opponents in a 11-0 loss.

The Raider pitching was shared by Missy Dexheimer (two innings, seven runs, five hits, five walks) and Stephanie Haenchen (two innings, four runs, two hits, three walks). Kelly Periman led the hitting attack with a triple.

The Raiders next played Jacobs and in spite of giving up eight first inning runs, they came from behind in a thrilling 9-8 victory.

Pitching seven innings for the Raiders was Lisa Murphy (eight runs, four hits, 11 walks, one strike out).

The offense was led by Erin O'Connel (two hits, three runs scored) and Periman (double, home run, six RBIs, two runs scored).

The defense stand was held by Salina Torri who was awarded the game MVP.

Lindenhurst boys soccer teams finish season

The spring season in the Northern Illinois Soccer League has drawn to a close for the boys soccer teams from Lindenhurst.

Turbos

The Turbos had the most exciting finale when they faced powerful Sports Club from Frankfort, who have been undefeated over the past two seasons. The two teams played a very even first half, with each mounting numerous attacks until Sports Club grabbed the lead goal just before half-time.

The Turbos came out strong in the second half and quickly put in an equalizer. From that point on the game belonged to Lindenhurst as the Turbos scored three more times for a 4-1 final.

Lindenhurst coaches Gus Marchetti and Nigel Wheeler complemented all of their players for a complete team effort at every position, noting that it was a perfect way to end a very successful season.

Lazers

The Lazers (U-14) faced the Darien Dynamo and came away with a hard fought 2-1 victory. Lindenhurst and Darien exchanged rush after rush in the fast-paced game, but the Lazers were just a little sharper when they needed to be.

One Lazer goal was scored by Chris Porter on a penalty kick, and the other was put in by John Krupka.

Goalkeeper Mike Szukala had an outstanding game in goal for Lindenhurst, protecting the lead with tremendous stops.

Royal Eagles

The Royal Eagles (U-10) completed their spring season with a 2-2 tie against the Hinsdale Strikers.

Lindenhurst struck first on well-placed shot by Ryan Jordan, assisted by David Calvert. Hinsdale scored two goals in quick succession to take the lead in the second half.

The Eagles' Ryan Myers fought to win a loose ball in the Strikers' end and scored an unassisted goal with seven minutes remaining.

The last few minutes of the game were highlighted by the spectacular goal keeping of Matt Boller as he foiled two break-aways and made a diving stop of a hard shot to preserve the tie.

Lightning

The Lightning (U-12) finished their best season even though they dropped their final game to the Phoenix Strikers by a score of 4-1.

Mark Sanderson scored the Lightning goal. The Lightning finished with a record of 8-1-1, scoring 51 goals and allowing only 7.

Lightning coach Ron Placko noted the excellent play this game and all season long of forwards Keli Owens, Peter Gedvilas, Clint Ludden and Jay Sturt; midfielders Scott Bender, Andy Lyon, Kevin Nelson and Kevin Earl; defenders Jon Mendelke, Josh Boller, Joe Hladnik and Mark Sanderson; and goalkeeper Nick Placko.

The Royal Eagles, the Lightning and the Lazers will be playing in the Rockford Watermelon Tournament this weekend.

These players received medals for their first place finishes in the Lindenhurst Youth Soccer Inaugural tournament for boys sixth through eighth-grade: Kevin Nelson, Aaron Mortensen, Kevin Ruuhela

Bullets play well in Rockford

The Lindenhurst Bullets played in their first softball tournament as an organized team over the Fourth of July weekend. The Bullets opened the qualifying round games with two victories and two losses.

Their first game on Saturday was played in the rain which made handling the softball very difficult. The Bullets gave up five first inning runs to Country Club Hills but battled back to a 5-5 tie before losing 8-5.

The Bullet's next opponent was the USA Strutters. A 7-4 victory was the first competitive tournament win for the newly formed Bullets team.

By tradition, the opposing teams vote and award a MVP of the opposition. Receiving the MVP awards for Saturday's games were Amie Carlberg and Katie Anderson.

The Bullets returned to action on Sunday in what will long be remembered as one of the most exciting games of the tournament softball that this team has played.

Down by a score of 7-3 after three innings, the Bullets clawed to take the lead at 10-8 in the top half of the last inning only to have Ottawa tie the game at 10-10 and force extra innings.

The Bullets again rallied for two more runs and a 12-10 victory in an extra inning game.

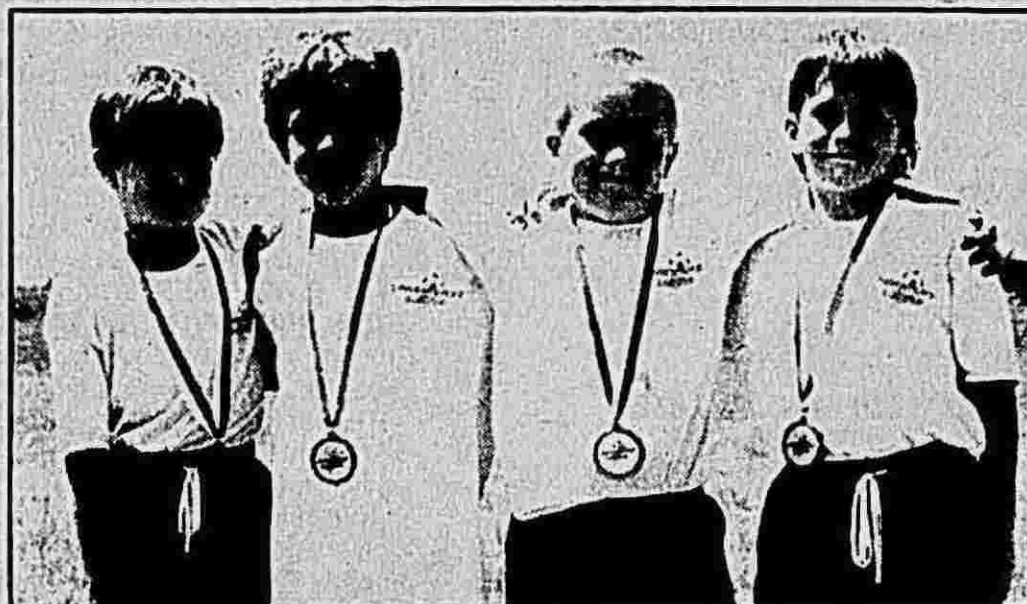

The second game saw Lake Zurich beat the Bullets 13-8 in a game that found the Bullets emotionally drained from their earlier victory. The MVP recipients were Nicole Langley and Kelly Kotlarz.

The single elimination bracket playoff on Monday was a rematch between the Bullets and Ottawa. This time the Bullets were short of heroics and fell to a 10-4 defeat.

Megs Kotlarz was awarded the MVP. This ended the tournament for the Bullets with a two win, three loss record.

The Bullets' tournament pitching was shared by Nicole Langley (18 innings, 20 runs, 30 walks, 13 strike outs) and Kelly Kotlarz (12 innings, 25 runs, 17 walks, four strike outs).

Leading the Bullets in RBIs at six each were Katie Anderson, Langley and Kendziora.

Michael Vitucci, Jeremiah Hares, David Quedens, Patrick Quane receive first place medals in the Inaugural tournament for the first-grade division.

Second and third grade boys receive first place medals for their age division in the Inaugural tournament were: Michael Persman, Eric Masters, Danny O'Neill, Miles Cooksy, Andrew Napier.

Notice of Petition by Waste Management of Illinois, Inc. for an Adjusted Standard Proceeding Before the Illinois Pollution Control Board

On June 29, 1994, Waste Management of Illinois, Inc. ("WMI"), located at Two Westbrook Corporate Center, Suite 1000, Westchester, Illinois 60154, filed a petition for an adjusted standard with the Illinois Pollution Control Board, which has docketed that petition AS-94-12. WMI seeks and adjusted standard from 35 Ill. Adm. Code sections 811.714 (b) and 807.665 (b). These regulations provide that closure insurance will satisfy the financial assurance requirements for solid waste disposal facilities if the insurance is issued by an insurance carrier "licensed to transact the business of insurance by the Illinois Department of Insurance". WMI proposes an adjusted standard which would make it clear that closure insurance issued by an insurer "eligible to provide insurance as an excess or surplus lines insurer" also satisfies the financial assurance requirements. WMI's proposed adjusted standard would require that such eligible surplus lines carrier "must have no less than $100 million in capital and surplus and must be an authorized surplus lines carrier in at least four other jurisdictions whose requirements for surplus lines carriers are equal to or more stringent than Illinois requirements." WMI operates solid waste disposal facilities throughout Illinois, including a facility in Antioch, Illinois.

Any person may cause a public hearing to be held in the above-described adjusted standard proceeding by filing a hearing request with the Illinois Pollution Control Board within 21 days after the date of the publication of this notice. The hearing request should clearly indicate the docket number for the adjusted standard proceeding, as found in this notice, and shall be mailed to the Clerk of the Board, Illinois Pollution Control Board, 100 W. Randolph, Suite 11-500, Chicago, Illinois, 60601.

Tips for choosing the best day care for your child

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

After considering what type of child care is best for your child, the type of setting your child or children will be most comfortable with, and having a list of potential providers, parents must then visit and interview the providers to evaluate the quality of the setting and program.

"Parents need to make a list of the things they just can't live without from a provider," explained Diana Richards of the Lake County YMCA. "The list should include the things you feel you need for the child."

Experts agree it is important to bring your child along when visiting providers. According to Richards, this is important to both the child and the caregiver. "That is absolutely essential," said Richards. "I think it is important for the provider to see the child to determine whether the child will fit into the mix of children already in the provider's care. The provider is interviewing the family as the family interviews the caregiver."

Safety is a number one priority in selecting a provider. There are different considerations, depending on the age of the child or children. However, one of the basic considerations include first aid. Parents should inquire about whether the provider has and can properly use a first aid kit. In an optimum situation, the provider will have certification in child and infant CPR and first aid.

According to the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, CPR and first aid training are required for licensed group child care homes and child care staff members. However, licensed child care home providers are not required to have this training.

Parents should discuss emergency health care and should provide a list of doctors and any medications the child must take, along with a release allowing the provider to administer the medicine including precise instructions. A list of emergency numbers should be posted at the provider's home and a fire extinguisher should be close at hand. In larger day care settings, make sure emergency routes are posted and the provider holds fire drills.

"Hopefully, a provider will conduct a monthly evacuation drill," said Richards, "no matter what the ages of the children." See CHILDCARE page B5

Majority polled support Grainger's corporate plans

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Following a countywide survey conducted by a poll company hired by W.W. Grainger Inc., the research firm found that a majority of Lake County residents favor Grainger's conservation development plan.

Grainger is proposing to build its corporate headquarters near Rte. 60 and I-94. The plan also includes a 257-acre donation to the Lake County Forest Preserve and a 113-acre parcel planned for upscale homes.

Respondents favored the plan by a 2 to 1 margin when asked forthrightly if they favored or opposed the plan. That figure jumped to a 3 to 1 margin in support when respondents were asked the same question a second time, after being informed of potential benefits from the proposal.

"We asked them cold before giving any positions pro or con about the subject. With more information people became more in favor of it," said James Kitchens, a partner in Kitchens, Powell & Kitchens. The Orlando-based research firm conducted the random telephone sample of 540 residents between May 31 and June 1. There is a 4.4 percent margin of error.

The survey also showed that 81 percent of the respondents favored development plans that provide open space, 72 percent agreed with the need to generate more corporate tax revenues, and 68 percent said the county needs the 500 new jobs Grainger is promising to residents.

Grainger Vice President and General Counsel Jim Baisley said the original point of the survey was to learn if the company's conservation message was being received by the public. In his personal dealings, Baisley said residents favored the Grainger plan 9 to 1.

"We are trying to communicate to the public a conservation development concept," said Baisley, adding that they wanted a scientific measure of their findings.

The results of the survey were announced two weeks prior to the County Board's expected vote on whether to grant Grainger the zoning changes it needs to build its corporate headquarters. Results were also mailed to each County Board member June 30.

When questioned about the timing of releasing the results,

Kitchens said in his experience he has never seen a politician change his/her mind because of the result of a poll.

"Polls do not dictate public policy," Kitchens said.

Mettawa Trustee Jere Zenko and Jack Tindall, communications director of Citizens Against Suburban Sprawl (CASS), questioned some of the findings of the poll.

Zenko, who opposes Grainger's plans, noted a greater percentage (29 percent) of those polled were from the northeast sector of the county.

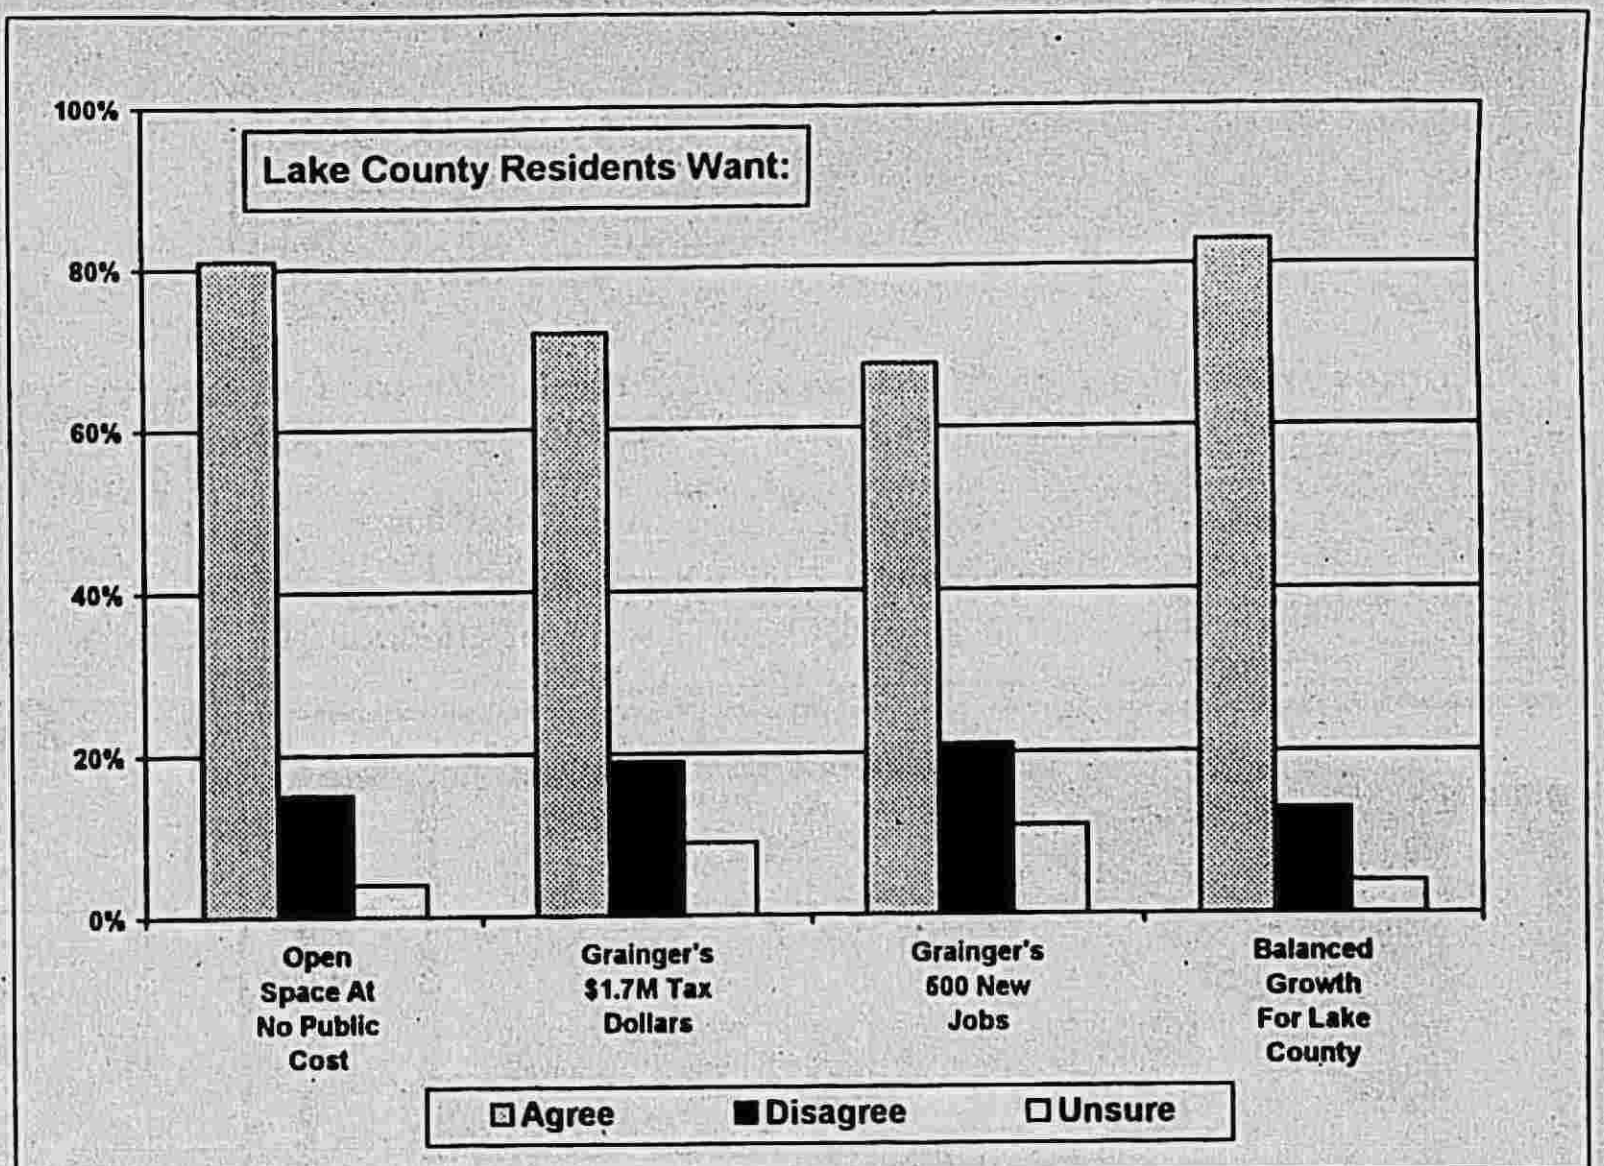

"The people who wholeheartedly support it (Grainger) derive the least benefit from it," Zenko said.

She continued, "If I lived in North Chicago or Waukegan, I would definitely respond the way they did."

Tindall said more people should become aware of the DuPage County Tax Impact Study, which notes that more development actually increases taxes to fund infrastructure improvements (roads, water and sewer) and pay for school population adjustments.

"Taxes and growth from corporate developments are the opposite than what they are perceived," Tindall said.

They're back—dreaded mosquitoes are here!

Outbreaks of adult mosquitoes are occurring throughout northern Illinois due to the recent heavy rains, and warm temperatures.

The main culprit is the flood water mosquito, Aedes vexans. The recent rains and have provided ideal breeding sites for this mosquito species and various other species of temporary pool mosquitoes. Eggs that were laid in low-land areas can remain dormant for months or even years. However, flooding of these areas stimulates egg hatch resulting in larvae ("wigglers") that eventually develop into biting adult mosquitoes. During warm weather, development from egg to adult may occur in as few as 10 to 14 days. The mosquitoes are vicious biters and are especially annoying at dusk and later in the evening. They are strong flyers and may migrate several miles from their breeding site over a period of a single day.

The following recommendations may help to minimize many of the problems mosquitoes cause.

- Eliminate any standing water in such places as eaves, old tires and toys, because they serve as a breeding site; empty and clean bird baths and children's pools each week.

- Curtail the use of colognes, perfumes, or after-shave lotions; mosquitoes are attracted to these products.

- Wear protective clothing to reduce the chance of being bitten; light-colored clothing is less attractive than garments with dark colors.

- Use a repellent when in mosquito-infested areas; DEET (diethyl-methyltoluamide) is the most effective product.

- Spray tall grass, areas around doorways, and other adult resting sites with an appropriate insecticide.

- To kill mosquitoes quickly at picnics, apply a mist of pyrethrin or another flying-insect spray from a pressurized can; spray the areas around the tables and chairs, but be careful not to allow insecticide spray to contaminate food or dishes.

Permanent bodies of water, such as ponds, abandoned swimming pools, and garden pools, should contain top-feeding fish to each any mosquito larvae that try to develop. Gambusia, known as mosquito fish, most balt minnows, or guppies will eliminate any "wigglers" (larvae) that are present. If the water is very shallow, the fish may die from heat or freezing and may have to be replaced occasionally. When selecting fish, realize that Gambusia may be very difficult to find since they do not overwinter here, guppies need water that is at least 60 degrees F. or warmer. Also, goldfish may not eat enough mosquito larvae to be effective. Minnows from a bait shop will probably be the cheapest, most available form of season-long control. The "wigglers," which are aquatic, can also be controlled with insecticides. Bacillus thuringiensis israelensis, a bacteria that kills only the larvae of mosquitoes and closely related insects, is available in most garden centers.

Float leaves tracks on student

FOX LAKE—A 10-year-old Gavin North fifth-grader was run over by the wheels of a double-axle trailer float during the annual Fourth of July parade sponsored by the American Legion. Cindy Richter was reportedly jumping around the slow moving 26-foot long Vietnam Veterans float designed by members of the Fox Lake Youth Group, as she handed out flyers to parade viewers. She apparently slipped and fell under the wheels and was run over on her thighs and hips. Richter was transported to Condell Memorial Hospital in Libertyville where she was treated and released. Her mother, Elana Richter, said Cindy will be on crutches for about a week. The driver of the truck pulling the float, club Vice President Al Gort said simply, "We're sorry there was a problem with the float, and we wish the American Legion a happy 75th anniversary."

Antioch woman escapes captors

ANTIOCH—An Antioch woman was rescued by Racine County Sheriff's Department officers after two men abducted her as she made her way to work at an Antioch McDonalds. The two men, Jamie Morales, 22, and Eulatin Rosales, 35, are currently charged with false imprisonment in Wisconsin. Both men were Antioch residents. The woman had been taken when she was forced off the road while on her bicycle at 4:20 a.m. June 29. According to the Racine County Sheriff's Department, she was forced into the backseat of their car and her bike was tossed into the trunk.

Gas station sells explosives

LAKE VILLA—Stan Gallus, 46, owner of Stan's Citgo and Auto Center, is expected to turn himself in to police on unlawful weapons charges. These charges stem from seizures of 300 M-500 and 20 M-100 fire-crackers in the station's garage area. The confiscation was made after an informant bought some of the explosives.

Library board seeks growth

MUNDELEIN—The Fremont Public Library Finance and Development Committees are exploring ways in which they can achieve standards set by Avenues to Excellence, an Illinois association that offers guidelines for public libraries. Members will set forth what is needed to make the library function at the highest level possible and the information will be given to a consultant. Possibilities include a referendum, a bond sale or merely using current funding which will continue to increase with a higher assessed valuation.

Barrington hopes to revitalize

BARRINGTON—Officials are hoping a new proposal for redevelopment of downtown Barrington will revitalize the sluggish area. Supporters of Harold Square, a four-story retail and residential development, hope the plan will succeed. Three others have failed. Under the plan, unveiled by four local investors, a square block bounded by Main, Hough, Station and Cook Streets, would be razed and a $30 million, English-style structure constructed.

Cuneo raises concerns

VERNON HILLS—In a letter to Vernon Hills Mayor Roger Byrne, Libertyville Mayor Jo Ann Eckmann expressed some concerns and outlined some areas of inter-village cooperation over the proposed development of the John F. Cuneo estates. Her main concern included the single collector planned to meander through the 2,100-home development. She also extended a hand to cooperate with Vernon Hills over connecting parks and bike paths between the two villages. Vernon Hills officials said they will keep Libertyville and other villages informed on pending traffic and sewage studies.

LAKE COUNTY

FIGHTING BACK

What Is A Prevention Partnership?

Everybody recognizes the importance of prevention: Preventing illness, homelessness, alcohol abuse, domestic violence, gangs...the list goes on.

Most of us don't know what we can do to prevent society's ills, so we point fingers and say "let them do it." The "them" we point fingers at are the police, schools, churches, treatment professionals, judges, social service agencies...other people.

"But prevention partnerships like the Fighting Back Project recognize that no segment of the population is exempt from the responsibility of preventing problems we all face," said Carol Yates, Fighting Back Project director.

Fighting Back is one of 250 prevention partnerships nationwide which are addressing issues at the local level, and sharing ideas nationally. Its goal is to create an environment where healthy life styles, hope and opportunity replace the abuse of alcohol and other drugs.

"We bring together educators, healthcare workers, judges, police officers, parents, high school students, social workers, prevention and treatment specialists, religious leaders, business people, community activists and elected officials," said Yates.

"For the last three years volunteers, whom we call partners, have been gathering information and determining what our specific problems are and how to address them. Now we have four Action Teams developing programs in areas of public policy, healthy children and families, partnerships and technical assistance," she said.

Among the county-wide issues which Fighting Back has addressed are: Effective parenting and parental responsibility, curfew enforcement, programs for at-risk children, and alcohol abuse prevention at community festivals.

"Fighting Back's 275 partners address issues of concern throughout the county, but we recognize that individual communities can benefit from their own partnerships. That's why we have offered our assistance to many new partnerships in the county," said Yates.

The Fighting Back Project's Partnership Action Team has published a booklet which contains detailed information about 15 current community partnerships in Lake County. This includes groups which have been around a long time like North Chicago's CAADA and Together We Can, which covers the Stevenson High School district in southern Lake County, and newer partnerships.

"We recently hosted a luncheon at which Jim Copple, director of a national coalition of partnerships, inspired us when he reminded us of the formidable task we have before us. He said partnerships could use that as an excuse to quit or a reason to work harder. Our partners have chosen to work harder," she said.

This is the first in a series of columns dedicated to strengthening our communities, families and children. Columns will feature programs that are working in the Lake County community, ideas to strengthen families and share resources.

If you would like to see other issues addressed, or have questions or comments, call the Fighting Back office at 546-7144.

Grainger proposal should be denied

The attempt of W.W. Grainger Co. to relocate its office headquarters to a south Lake County residential area has unleashed a torrent of opposing viewpoints. Public debate on the issue has brought into focus the most intense scrutiny of the integrity of local and county zoning laws in many years.

A substantial portion of the political leadership views the question in terms of job enhancement and economic growth and development.

Residents of Mettawa and homeowners in adjacent neighborhoods look upon Grainger plans as no less than pillaging the land and an outright debasement of a system of laws and regulations designed to protect individual property rights.

Grainger, from our perspective, is employing those same individual rights to substantiate plans to turn a wooded sector the company has owned for a number of years into a modern office complex. The company has argued persuasively that it should be allowed to build, especially after a creative, but questionable alteration of the county's long range plan, and an unprecedented donation of land to the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist.

Were it not for the zoning question, W.W. Grainger would be welcomed with open arms. Disregarding the Mettawa mess, Grainger is a model corporate citizen and a great place to work, as attested by the number of supportive letters to the editor written by employees who reside in various parts of Lake County.

The fact remains that the Grainger building plan boils down to a case of the few wanting to impose their will on the many. Despite what Grainger offers in the way of public land use and economic benefits, the company is attempting to subvert local planning and zoning.

In our mind, that's too much to ask, especially when there is properly zoned commercial space in abundance, space for potential growth and development, it is interesting to note, that is supported by many of the same people who oppose the Grainger center in Mettawa. Outcries about traffic, congestion and lifestyle ruination are only side issues to the basic question of the wisdom of punching a big hole in zoning ordinances and land use plans.

The right and proper thing for Lake County Board members who have the sayso is to deny Grainger building permission. It isn't fair to the system or the people to bring down the integrity of zoning laws and land planning that is the underpinning of Lake County's distinctive character.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Commercial flood due

Editor:

W.W. Grainger Co. will destroy the integrity of the communities most directly affected by it by totally changing the character of their surroundings.

The construction will cause massive traffic problems and tie-ups, which will be in addition to the congestion already existing on every thoroughfare in the vicinity.

It will open the door to a flood of commercial development in this area which is and always has been residential in character.

Eloise A. Canfield
Lincolnshire

Road congestion will get worse

Editor:

If you allow the Grainger project to proceed, St. Mary's Road will become a four-lane St.

Mary's highway. Rte. 60 will be a six-lane highway. You will have congested further a congested traffic system. Rte. 22, in Lincolnshire, is a great example of a classic continued traffic problem.

I urge denial of the Grainger project. There are multiple choice areas for industrialization that Grainger can go to to get this project done.

T. Dimitriou
Mettawa

Fed up on growth

Editor:

The people of Lake County are fed up with unrestrained development. There is available at this time more than enough land in the county, properly zoned, to handle all the growth the county could possibly desire over the next quarter century. We must think of protecting our residential character as well.

Popular resentment against over-development exists all over the county, not only in Mettawa. County Board members McRae and Fields discovered this too late, to their chagrin. Both were beaten by political unknowns with meager finances. Carol Calabrese beat a well-financed, hand-picked party endorsed candidate; in the Mettawa area she received 80 percent of the vote, and Grainger was the main campaign issue.

It is time that the County Board understand that they are representatives of the voters who put them there, not of special interests. Grainger can provide political contributions, but they can't provide votes. Last April's primary should forcefully remind every office holder of that. We look to the County Board to protect our community. If they fail to do that, we will remember!

Elliott Tarson

Grainger gall outrageous

Editor:

I am furious and I am frustrated as I watch more and more Lake County officials knuckle under to the wishes of a corporation, dismissing the rightful desires of the people most directly affected.

To me, it's a matter of principle. An individual or a corporation should not be permitted to flagrantly and blatantly change the rules. W.W. Grainger knowingly bought land which was zoned residential and assumed the residents of Mettawa would bow before them. The residents did not bow and scrape. They stood firm in their belief that their long-established and treasured zoning would be honored. But it seems there is no honor. The gall of W.W. Grainger literally makes me shake.

Yes, I am concerned about the traffic. I am concerned about the specter of urban zoning. But I am most concerned about the principle. What does it say about our county and our ethical standards if a corporation is allowed to buy in and then change the rules to suit itself? What sort of precedent does it set if valued local zoning and the priorities of local residents can be so easily set aside?

It may seem naive to state, "You just don't do that," but you just don't do that. Especially where there are several hundred acres already zoned for Grainger's purposes, with big for sale signs on them, less than a mile away, just on the other side of the toll road.

Connie Cameron Porth
Libertyville

Not everyone 'rich'

Editor:

My husband and I can't compete with Grainger's expensive presentations, high-powered legal experts, public relations pros and gift of lands, but I hope the county is giving fair consideration to us, the county citizens and what we have to say.

We moved to Lake County in 1968 and live in a modest house on one and a half acres in an unincorporated area off Bradley Road near Rte. 60—close to the Grainger site.

I bring this up because there's a misconception among many people that only "rich" Mettawa residents oppose Grainger. We are neither rich, nor do we live in Mettawa. There are many hundreds of hard-working average people like us who live in modest circumstances in the River Corridor here.

When we settled here, we were assured that residential zoning in this area would be protected. But along comes Grainger, buys up a lot of land in our area and immediately petitions for a rezoning change with total disregard for how this change would erode the long-standing, well-established rural, residential character of our community.

VIEWPOINT

Tranquil lane provides link to helter-skelter world

BILL SCHROEDER

Publisher

In an ever changing countryside where open fields sprout houses almost overnight and every intersection is being clogged with strip malls and convenience stores, one roadway remains constant.

That's the narrow, one-way dead-end lane that is my link to the outside world.

Mornings always are a surprise, especially in spring or summer.

On leaving home for the ever lengthening drive to the office, two right angle turns bring me to a pond. The road separates the pond from the lake.

Sometimes a flock of geese block my path, waddling and cackling as they wend their way to the water. Sometimes a blue heron stands stiff legged in the pond, silently surveying the scenery—and waiting for an unwary fish to provide breakfast.

The other morning, a well-fed deer bounded away from my approaching car, a brown rump disappearing into the trees. Is that the same creature that was getting a drink from the pond a few weeks ago?

For some reason, a pair of swan like to glide up to the road-side, enjoying the protection low hanging willows and a nearby island provide from open lake water made rough by the wind or passing boats. The majestic creatures are unafraid and seem to enjoy the adulation of human admirers.

The lagoon formed by the road bridge and the island is a favorite spot for mama mallards to teach their ducklings what mallards are supposed to do.

After dark, when the neighbors have settled down for the night, the lane becomes a thoroughfare for foraging raccoons, the masked bandits of the night who never cease to enjoy their inborn skill of opening trash containers.

Towering trees provide a canopy for houses lining the lane and a haven for a virtual bird book of feathered species. My favorites are the cardinals and blue jays that provide streaks of color. In early spring, when the ground still might be covered with snow, the tree-top denizens provide the distinctive calls and cheerps that warmer weather is on the way.

The grumpy old woodchuck who thinks our deck is his home competes for early morning attention by browsing in our neighbor's yard. As long as he stays away from the petunia bed, I don't mind him.

Somewhere on the hill overlooking the pond lie the remains of earlier residents who enjoyed the sights and sounds of the woods in a time before—way before—ancestors of the present residents occupied the land. I find that thought fascinating, irrefutable evidence that all of us are only passersby.

The lane is a link to the outside world, a door that opens in the morning and closes at evening, providing for a special place—my Lake County.

PARTY LINES

Who's who on critical Grainger zoning vote

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

When Lake County Board members vote on the W.W. Grainger Inc. rezoning issue, there could be some surprises.

Marks (Riverwoods), Suzi Schmidt (Lake Villa), Carol Calabrese (Libertyville) and Mary Beattie (Lake Forest).

Although Larry Leafblad (Grayslake) generally supports the plan, he has expressed concern about added traffic the site will produce in the grid-locked Vernon Hills area.

Carol Spielman (Highland Park) may also be teetering. She has voiced her opposition against opening up urban zoning along major interchanges. Others who have been silent on the issue but who could cast pivotal votes one way or the other include Robert Stolman (Buffalo Grove) and Mark Beaubien Jr. (Barrington Hills). The deciding tally will be taken July 12.

Schmidt

Late but great—Tickets and invitations got out late, but Willard Helander's cocktail party setting the stage for the July 4 holiday weekend was a big success. Playing on the holiday theme, the invite for Vernon Township Community Center depicted Willard as the new "sparkler" of the Republican party. Helander is running for county clerk.

Where's Bob?—Despite his defection as lieutenant governor, new radio talk show host Bob Kustra still is on as special guest for a kickoff reception Tuesday, July 12, for State Rep. Al Salvi (R-Wauconda). Salvi will be feted at Country Squire.

Party fight—Two Republican bigwigs are making noises like they're ready to tangle. Partylines is watching closely. Stay tuned.

Making strides—The Village of Old Mill Creek used to be known more for Tempel Farms and the Lippizzans. In the past few months, the village is becoming a hotbed for planning along Rtes. 45 and 173. The village now has new stationery, is buying a U.S. flag for village hall and is looking into a village flag. Mayor Paul Koppen suggested the flag at a village board meeting.

New foes?—With Lincoln Skalla retiring as president of the Gurnee Residents Advisory Committee, one wonders if the village board meetings will be as challenging for Mayor Dick Welton and trustees. Gurnee is waiting to see who will take up the task of providing "concerned citizen" input. Lincoln's wife Meg ran for Mayor of Gurnee.

Water fights—Round Lake Beach rejected a proposal from Round Lake Heights to share a 500,000 gallon water tank both villages need. The cost to Round Lake Beach would have been $260,000 for an extension of a water line which could have looped there water system and given the village much needed water pressure. Now with both sides unwilling to compromise, both residents are likely to lose. Round Lake Heights residents don't get Lake Michigan water and Round Lake Beach residents may not get needed water pressure.

Tax Savings—While other villages are building expensive village halls, Lake Villa is using its existing space for needed improvements. The village purchased the former post-office adjacent to the village hall, remodeled and remodeled the structure. The police department will use the old village hall for expansion of police facilities. Both projects cost the taxpayers much less than the cost of purchasing land and building new facilities.

Office not best use

Editor:

Grainger says they are bringing employment to our area. The fact is unemployment in our area (Vernon Hills, Lake Forest, Mettawa and Lincolnshire) is less than two percent. The unemployment rate of Hainesville, Round Lake and North Chicago is over 10 percent and they would welcome Grainger with open arms.

The most residents possible, using five acre zoning on the land owned by Grainger, would be 500 residents, allowing five persons per household. Graingers' office complex would add up to 5,000 people in our area. How can they say this will not affect traffic on Rte. 60? As it is it can take up to 30 minutes to travel from Rte. 41 to St. Mary's Road during rush hour.

We do not think an office complex fits into our area or is the best use for the land.

Edward and Lorraine Johnson
Mettawa

Revision reflects people

Editor:

We are delighted that the Planning and Zoning Committee of the Lake County Board has acknowledged that the language proposed by W.W. Grainger and inserted by the Regional Plan Commission into the Framework Plan, was a major policy change, and that the committee has chosen to eliminate it. We are pleased that the new language more closely adheres to the public hearing draft of December 1993.

It is fortunate that with the involvement of some 15 municipalities, Mettawa and Long Grove were able to make the point to the committee that not only was the revision inappropriate, but that the procedures and processes followed in this matter compromised the integrity and independence of the Framework document. It is unfortunate that, but for the diligence of the municipalities, a policy statement not in the best interests of all of Lake County would have resulted.

Further, hopefully, the Committee's action will make it clear to the Lake County Planning Department that their process is flawed, and that all staff-proposed revisions, whether or not on behalf of a single property owner such as W.W. Grainger, should not become a part of county policy without the opportunity for public scrutiny, debate and comment.

The revised language is reflective of the county "vision" statement and is a victory for all the people of Lake County.

Jere Scott Zenko, trustee
Village of Mettawa

Traffic nightmare looms

Editor:

We are neither residents of Mettawa nor are we rich. We do however, live in incorporated Lake County within one mile of the property for which rezoning has been requested. We are perhaps part of that silent majority, who while totally opposed to the request by Grainger for rezoning, have not spoken out. There are many of us out here who feel this way, but like so many, we have let those who are willing and who are so competent speak for us.

Eight years ago, we moved to this area and built a house after living in a townhouse in Waukegan for many years. We longed to live in a rural setting but yet be within a reasonable distance to commute to work and shopping. We wanted a better quality of life, and we found it here.

Now Grainger comes to town and says "have I got a deal for you." All we can see in this deal is no protection to our residential area. We will be right back where we started and in the middle of what we wanted to get away from. It will be a traffic nightmare! Allowing Grainger to build an office complex and bring more traffic to an already congested area will exacerbate the problem.

Win-win plan for all

Editor:

As a Lake County homeowner, voter and employee of W.W. Grainger, Inc., I am responding to the articles that appeared. A majority of the articles imply that Grainger should be prevented from developing their national headquarters at that location. Additionally, they imply that allowing the development would prevent the site from remaining open space.

The past articles do not properly communicate the specifics of Grainger's proposed land development plan. These specifics clearly define a more positive impact within Lake County. Approval from the Lake County Forest Preserve Board ensures that all Lake County residents optimally benefit from the future development of the land at this location.

The details of Grainger's Conservation Development proposal is unprecedented in Illinois. It is a "win-win" solution for all Lake County residents and it is a plan that conforms to the county's Framework Plan. This proposal benefits the county as a whole while preserving the land's picturesque natural foliage.

Enough building land

Editor:

Mettawa will be spoiled if W.W. Grainger builds in the center of the village. Soon other companies will do the same. Even though W.W. Grainger is offering land for a forest preserve, there will be no way to preserve the real beauty and unique atmosphere of Mettawa once this huge commercial development has been built.

This area should remain residential; there is enough business and commercial development east of the tollway and west of the river.

Helen Donohue
Mettawa

Financial clout evident

Editor:

I believe that the majority of jobs that Grainger is allegedly going to bring to Lake County are not new jobs. They plan to consolidate a number of existing sites in and near to Lake County at their proposed new headquarters. Thus, many of the "new jobs" are already filled by existing Grainger employees and most of the employees will probably not move from their current residence. While there may be some job growth in the future, there will not be a Grainger-driven employment boom as a result of their proposed move to Mettawa.

It is evident that Grainger has used its considerable financial clout very adroitly. Their executives, expert witnesses, special environmental review boards and special interest supporters have lobbied extensively at meetings, in the press and behind the scenes. I urge the County Board to look through and beyond their well-polished propaganda to the core issue: Mettawa is a diverse rural, residential community that has taken shape under the residential zoning designation by Lake County, and W.W. Grainger Inc. should not be permitted to undo this zoning purely for their own economic self-interest.

Charles M. Brennan
Mettawa

Forest gift questionable

Editor:

Grainger was aware that the Framework Plan did not call for additional urban areas outside municipalities and that this land was zoned five-acre residential under Mettawa's control when they bought it. The plan should not be altered by Grainger to suit itself.

Unemployment in this area of Lake County is virtually nonexistent. How else could we all afford to buy homes and pay the high taxes in this locale? Thus, the 500 supposed additional jobs Grainger will create will likely not come from the surrounding area or draw from already established employers in the area.

If developed as five-acre residential, taxes would be sufficient to cover the cost of education and less burden would be placed on all of the infrastructure currently in place.

The Forest Preserve cannot afford to maintain and develop what it already owns, as proven by the recent referendum required, so let private landowners bear this burden. Public access to more forestry is not needed in this area.

It makes no sense to me to add to what already is a too-congested area. There is land available that is currently zoned for Grainger's needs. If they choose not to locate within these areas, that's their right, but they should not be able to rewrite the Framework Plan for their benefit, or to buy their way into Lake County over the objections of the surrounding communities!

VICTORY MEMORIAL Hospital*Share time with elderly

Victory Lakes Continuing Care Center in Lindenhurst invites men and women, adults and teens to spend a cool hour to two each week this summer sharing activities and friendship.

Victory Lakes is looking for volunteer help to brighten the lives of the older adult residents of the center. At the same time, you can share your special interests. For instance, volunteer opportunities include playing the piano for a hymn sing-a-long, assisting residents in the garden, reading to someone, calling numbers for bingo games, enjoying a walk around the grounds with a resident, or just spending friendly time visiting and chatting about the day's events.

To discover more about the opportunities to share provided by Victory Lakes, call Janet Crane at 356-5900.

'Living With Diabetes'

Victory's "Living With Diabetes" class series is presenting a free seminar—how diabetes affects your kidneys—at the Grayslake Medical Building. The seminar will teach the importance of keeping your blood sugar and blood pressure regulated so that your kidneys stay healthy.

Pat Hendricks, RN, BSN, Clinical Nurse IV, will be the guest speaker. She will explain kidney functions and structures.

The seminar will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, July 13 at the Victory Medical Building, 100 N. Atkinson Road, Grayslake.

For more information call 360-4148.

St. Therese laboratory receives accreditation

The laboratory at Saint Therese Medical Center has been awarded a two-year accreditation by the Commission on Laboratory Accreditation of the College of American Pathologists (CAP), based on results of an on-site inspection.

The laboratory's director was advised of this national recognition and congratulated for the "excellence of the services being provided." The laboratory at Saint Therese Medical Center is one of more than 4,200 CAP-accredited laboratories nationwide.

The CAP Laboratory Accreditation Program, begun in the early 1960s, is recognized by the federal government as being equal to or more stringent than the government's own inspection program.

Inspectors examine the records and quality control of the laboratory for the preceding two years, as well as the education and qualifications of the total staff, the adequacy of the facilities, the equipment, laboratory safety and laboratory management, to determine how well the laboratory is serving the patient.

Any-willing-provider laws criticized as costly to reform

The any-willing-provider laws entice physicians who meet mediocre standards to be allowed to join a managed care network. Any health care plan that wants to say "no" would be required to prove, in a tedious and expensive process, why the physician should not be allowed in the network.

As the health care debate reaches the fourth quarter, organized medicine is mounting a full-court press to make sure any-willing-provider laws are a part of a health care reform plan.

But, managed care plans are crying foul and charge that, in the final score, any-willing-provider laws will actually hurt consumers and increase administrative cost.

Groups like the AMA want legislation requiring health plans to contract with all doctors, hospitals and other health providers on the same terms.

"While innocent sounding, the track record of any-willing-provider laws prove they do not help us achieve the goals of health care reform," said Ted Desch, Blue Cross senior vice president.

Desch and other managed care experts say that any-willing-provider laws would inflict a near fatal blow to developing a cost-effective managed care system. Managed care plans negotiate contracts with a limited number of providers that meet cost and quality requirements.

Desch points to data supporting the claims that any-willing-provider laws undermine health care reform. A 1992 Wyatt Company study found a typical managed care plan's claims costs increased from between nine percent and 14 percent under any-willing-provider laws.

"If our claims costs go up, then costs go up for the consumers," said Desch. "That is not health care reform."

"Any-willing-provider laws reduce competition among doctors and providers for contracts with health plans," said Desch. "That hurts us because we try to contract with only the best quality and cost-effective physicians who believe in managed care."

Health insurance executives also say health plans would be forced to spend more on administration if forced to contract with and monitor more providers.

"Market competition is the best way to encourage doctors, hospitals and other providers to offer the best prices and service," said Desch. "The quality physicians don't need any-willing-provider laws to attract patients."

Three Lake County teachers and one from Kenosha were recognized as "Outstanding Teachers of the Year" for their contributions to science and math by the Abbott Laboratories chapter of Sigma Xi, the national scientific research organization.

Honored were Nick Drozdoff of Lake Bluff, who teaches science at Zion-Benton High School; Thomas Tiber of Kenosha, a math teacher at St. Joseph High School in Kenosha; Pamela Motsenbocker of Vernon Hills, who teaches science at Deerpath Junior High School in Lake Forest; and Rosemary Troxel of Mundelein, a science teacher at Rockland Elementary School in Libertyville.

The teachers each received a personal award of a $200 savings bond from Abbott's chapter of Sigma Xi. In addition, each received a grant from Fisher Scientific laboratory supply company to purchase supplies for their schools. The high schools received $1,000 and each of the other schools received a $500 grant toward laboratory equipment.

The Abbott chapter of Sigma Xi selected teachers for the award based on nominations from their students. According to Zion-Benton senior Christopher Vigart, who nominated Drozdoff, "Mr. Drozdoff's teaching career has only begun, but his dedication and enthusiasm concerning his love for science will, undoubtedly, instill in future students the value of science in our society." A former engineer at Motorola, Drozdoff switched gears to teach high school physics while continuing to pursue his masters degree in physics from DePaul University. "Mr. Drozdoff has an unquenchable thirst for knowledge. He constantly brings to class bright, innovative ways to study physics."

"If cloning is made possible, Mr. Tiber should serve as the model for all math teachers," said Laura Meyers, a senior at St. Joseph High School, who nominated Tiber. "Caring, motivational, understanding and creative are all accurate words that describe him." Tiber brings variety to the classroom and creative ways to his teaching. Finch University graduates 'first' class

The first class of Finch University of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School participated in graduation ceremonies in Orchestra Hall last week. More than 385 students from Finch University's The Chicago Medical School, the School of Related Health Sciences and the School of Graduate and Postgraduate Studies received diplomas.

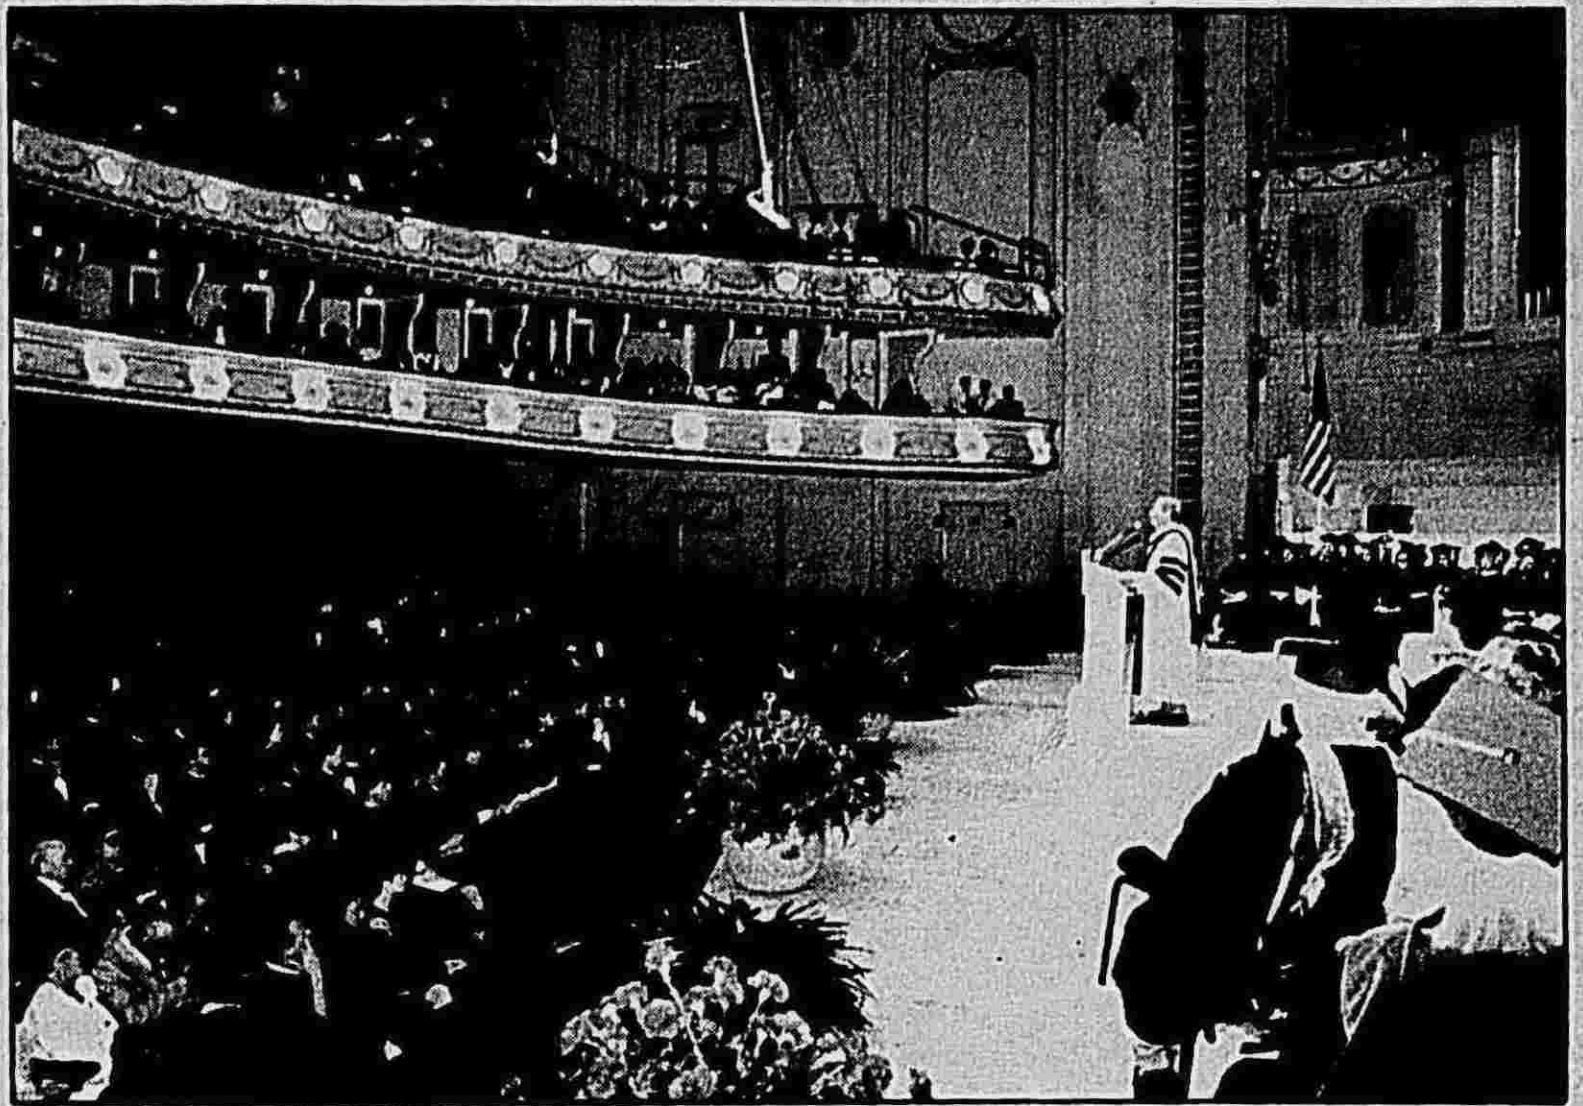

In honor of this year's renaming, Herman M. Finch, chairman and CEO of the school, addressed the graduating students and their families during the commencement speech. During his speech, Finch traced the interesting history of the Chicago Medical School and its formation as the first health sciences university. He sent students off with insights from being on the forefront of medical education and changing health care over the past four decades. Finch also discussed Finch University's role with the uncertain future of health care. "Going into this uncertain era, people say we are now at a crossroads, wondering what about the status of the relationship between the doctor and patient. As far as our school is concerned, regardless of the system, the desire to heal patients is paramount. This is the spirit of our heritage."

Finch recalled one of his personal rewards on leading the university for 46 years as... "the joy of having 4,500 living medical school alumni and 1,500 allied health professionals in the field translating into 175,000 patients seen by these professionals each day."

Finch also received an honorary doctorate degree presented by Dr. Richard Hawkins, executive vice president and chief academic officer of Finch University.

Based in North Chicago, Finch University of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School is a private, independent institution committed to educating men and women for professional careers in health care, teaching and research. In addition to its medical school, Finch University consists of the School of Graduate and Postdoctoral Studies and the School of Related Health Sciences.

Herman M. Finch, chairman and CEO of Finch University of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School, addressed the audience during the university's 1994 graduation ceremonies. This year, more than 385 students graduated from the university's three schools—The Chicago Medical School, the School of Graduate and Postgraduate Studies and the School of Related Health Sciences.

In nominating Deerpath's Molsenbocker, eighth grader Justin Palmer identified her as a creative and understanding teacher. "On the first day of class, while she was telling us how unpredictable science is, she stood on top of her desk for the whole explanation." He continued, "Because of Ms. Molsenbocker's creativity and enthusiasm, I've learned to think about scientific problems in a new way. I'm very grateful to her."

Noah Tesch, a fifth grader at Rockland, nominated Troxel, stating, "Mrs. Troxel is the greatest fifth grade science teacher in the galaxy!" He wrote, "First, we always have lots of scientific things to observe or experiment with. When we studied invertebrates, Mrs. Troxel brought in jars with the specimens preserved inside them. One day, during our vertebrate unit, she brought in a toad that she had caught in her yard. That's dedication! I think Mrs. Troxel has gotten all the kids excited about science. She's a super teacher!"

"Teachers play an essential role in developing students' interest in science and math," said Don Eisenhower, Ph.D., of Deerfield, president of Abbott's Sigma Xi chapter. "It's important to recognize teachers who make learning exciting and show how science and math are applied in the real world."

The goal of Sigma Xi is to advance scientific research, to encourage information sharing among scientists and to assist the wider understanding of science.

Dance fever

I returned from vacation and can't believe your article that the daughter of Round Lake Park's mayor is begging for school funds and for a summer program yet. She may be talented but next summer will it be more begging? We have a talented daughter who has been accepted by a prestigious art academy in Chicago. But since I'm not the mayor of Round Lake Park, she doesn't get front page coverage and has to go the way of most talented kids by getting jobs, student loans, aid, etc. Shame on you and Mayor Bayer for making this front page news. My contributions go to my daughter.

Relative job

If anybody is wondering where nepotism is, it is flourishing in Wauconda public works. It has been there for many years.

Live trap walks

To the woman who suggested that I use a live trap to catch the cat that is killing my birds, I bought a live trap that cost me $50. I tried to catch it and bring it to the police, but it was stolen that night. I finally had to give up on my birds and let the cat have the run of the yard.

Prison waxed

I think that is a fabulous program the Lake County officials in charge of the marine unit have with the individuals who are providing community service. These individuals who have been arrested have to go out and work at the marine unit. I want to know where to bring my boat since these prisoners are cleaning these high ranking officials' boats and cleaning and waxing their cars. Isn't that an embarrassment to the marine unit. How wonderful to have a nice shiny boat with the elbow grease being paid for by the Lake County residents. What wonderful leadership out there.

Gambling pay-off?

Every time I pick up the newspaper, all I see is about the river boat gambling coming to Fox Lake. Has anybody bothered to ask the people if they want it? All my neighbors and I say 'no way.' Did the mayor just assume that we all wanted it? Or is there a pay-off involved?

Reading Railroad?

I'm addressing my call to the Grayslake Library board. Aren't libraries supposed to be quiet? Why in the world would the board want to build the new library next to a freight train and soon-to-be commuter line?

Touching speech

As a 1993 graduate of Grass Lake School I would suggest that they could have put on a better show for the 1994 graduation. The highlight of the ceremony was the speech the young lady gave about the boy who died. I think it was seven years ago. I thought that was a very touching speech.

Dueling holidays

I agree with the caller of 'God's Earth Day' considering that Christmas was moved by the Catholic church to compete with Hanukkah. It never really was in December.

Jump on board

If you want a chance to participate in your child's education, there is an opening on the Woodland School Board. Watch for the notices or send your letter of interest to the school and you can be interviewed by the board. Perhaps you can do what you want to do for your school.

Helpful hardware

Twice I had to go Antioch Ace Hardware to get something. Both times I was there, the men working dropped what they were doing to see if they could help me without me even asking for it. Not only did they tell me what I needed, they walked me over to the aisle to see if it really was what I was looking for. One man even helped me build a lamp. He walked me to each part I would need. Three cheers for Antioch Ace Hardware for hiring such helpful people. The cashiers are even friendly. It is about time that consumers were treated with respect. I will always go back there when the need arises.

Hot meal

There is a restaurant in Grayslake that is like eating in a sauna. The owner never turns the air on in the summer. Secondly, you hear the cooks swearing at the waitresses on Sunday mornings. When some competition opens up I'm sure all the customers will go there to eat.

Natural born killers

I have animals and I live by a creek. I am upset by the diminishing animal life. They were all put here to the planet with us and we are putting them off the face of the Earth. I am glad that some people try to preserve them, but people who own cats should be more responsible. They let their cats run free. A cat will kill anything in the wild to survive because cats are natural killers. If you let them run free, that is what they will do. People who move and abandon their cats should have them put to sleep instead. There are several wild cats along the creek and they kill to survive. I own a cat but I don't let it run free. There are beautiful black squirrels in the village and the cats will probably make them extinct.

Book dump

I am shocked, shocked and disappointed with the library board's decision to move our—the taxpayers'—library to such a dump location without our approval. It is unbelievable that they campaigned so hard for the Central Park location to win the taxpayers over. Then, when we voted and agreed to give them the $4.5 million dollars to build the new facility, then went into a practically secret meeting and voted to do the exact opposite with our money. That kind of money to be spent on a railroad site? This is insane. Every member of that board should resign. I would be ashamed to abuse my power like they just did. I thought we lived in a democracy, where what the majority wants, wins. Not a board on a self-serving ego trip. We the taxpayers will fight this decision every step of the way.

Take to the people

This is about an article in Lipservice called 'Downtown library.' I attended a library board meeting on June 20 in which the board went into executive session for 15 minutes and announced to those attending there they were going to purchase the Hook's Lumber yard and build the new library there. This came as a total shock to me as a voter and a taxpayer in Grayslake. I voted on what I thought was going to be a library building in Central Park. There was a great deal of negative conversation about the park district board. In this Lipservice article there is so much hatred toward the park district board that I feel the decision was made totally on emotions by a bunch of people who can't stand the park district board. The members of both boards should come together in a combined meeting in front of the citizens of Grayslake to air their differences so we can find out what is really going on here. I feel the decision was made because of lack of trust, lack of belief, and a lack of cooperation between the two boards. It would be a good idea to bring the school board into this because the library board even expressed disgust toward the school board. There are so many jealousies and hatred between these three groups. I don't know how anything can get done here. They should get everything out on the table so a good decision can be made for the community. I don't think a library next to the railroad tracks can be effective as a quiet and peaceful environment. The emphasis for the new library should be for the residents, not for a bunch of downtown merchants who don't even live in the community.

Lost the 250

The library board of Grayslake has decided to buy a property for approximately $250,000 instead of the using the property donated free of charge by the Grayslake Park District board. Contrary to an article in the Grayslake Times, an interview with someone close to the sale of the property puts the price tag close to $250,000. So instead of a peaceful setting in a park, you will be able to see your library fight next to railroad tracks and see the trains rumble down the tracks. It's a great setting for our children's learning experience. Isn't it? This does not seem like a logical action by a board that is entrusted with a lot of public money to be used for the good of the community. See LIPSERVICE page B11

ty. Isn't it strange that the library purchased this land on April 12, but only announced they were going to build the library there on June 20?

The library board was not negotiating in earnest with the park district board, and their vote on June 20 was outright deception. We put our trust in our elected officials to perform in the public's interest. I would suggest that someone else's interests other than the public's is being satisfied here. I would implore the appropriate legal watchdog investigate this library board action. It does not take a genius to see this decision was made out of emotion, and not with rationality. The funds for this project were approved by voters in November based on site drawings in Central Park. I know that I voted for the library project based on that beautiful setting. I think it is only appropriate that the public get to declare their preference of building sites, even though I think our voice was loud and clear the first time. Grayslake residents should be aware of the childish actions of this elected body.

Editorial note: As the article stated, the village purchased the lot April 12 for $100,000. It was also owned by Hook's Lumber, but is across the street from the proposed library site. The library has also stated that the Hook's property price for the library sight is not even close to $250,000. They will release the price after the deal closes in July.

Big sign

That monstrous sign in little Hainesville on Rte 12 is an eyesore, and the people responsible for erecting it should be ashamed. This type of sign belongs in an industrial area, not a residential area. It should be removed.

Not hooked on site

I voted for a library to be built in Central Park in Grayslake. Who told the library board they could take my money and build on a different site? I am opposed to the Hook's Lumber site.

Good girls

In the last two years that the Woodland grade school has had girl's teams, they have been outstanding. I wonder why Mr. Bradley doesn't take the time to put anything about it in the newspaper. Is he too busy?

A lot to use

It was distressing to read an objection to the call about a new store downtown and its grand opening sign. The village has not yet turned this lot into a park, and businesses should be warmly welcomed here and encouraged. Until the lot official becomes a park, why not let all businesses use it to announce their grand opening? It signals the new prosperity to Grayslake.

Games or crimes?

This is to all the people who gripe constantly about children playing games in neighborhoods on streets, lawns, and parks. Aren't you glad these children are playing innocent games while trying to grow up in a messed up world? At least they are not causing trouble or committing crimes. Get up and help make a better environment for kids while they can still be reached. Where did you grow up, in a closet? Help out or crawl back into it.

Uninsured

This is about the national health insurance problem especially with divorced women. I think it is unfair that a man can leave the marriage and the children and not be responsible for any health insurance coverage for the wife for at least 18 months. I am a recently divorced woman, and just discovered I have cancer. I have no health insurance. I have gone to many programs to find out how I can get insurance, and they won't even talk to me. I hope a legislator sees this and takes some action to help those who cannot help themselves. I also hope that my ex-husband sees this.

Editorial note: To ensure a legislator hears about your plight, you should also write your representative directly. We wish you well.

Misrepresentative board

This is to the Grayslake Library board. You have completely misrepresented the citizens of the village for the past year. You have been saying one thing to our faces and have been working toward other goals behind our backs. The Central Park location has been approved unanimously by your board in November 1993. This came after a successful referendum in the fall where every place of literature, every public meeting, and every newspaper article tied a new library building to the Central Park location. We have been patiently waiting for construction to begin and now we are told it will be constructed on a parcel that is less than 1 acre, 30 feet from a busy railroad crossing. Did the public have a say in this. No. Our board took action with no warning. It came as a complete surprise to us. That was an underhanded action, lacking in moral ethical judgment. The board members should be forced to resign. I think their mirror may tell them to do so.

Museum restores Native American cradle

Originally used in a Native American woodland tribe, a brightly decorated birch bark cradle, dating back to 1900, has been restored to its original splendor at the Lake County Forest Preserves' Lake County Museum near Wauconda.

When the Lake County Museum acquired the Wadsworth Lake County Museum of History in 1965, it also acquired its collection of historical artifacts, among them a severely deteriorated Native American cradle. Placed in storage, there was little hope that much could be done to bring the cradle back to life, until a concerned Lake County resident and Christine Del Re, a conservator at the Field Museum of Chicago came to the rescue in 1992.

At the time, Del Re was completing a survey of the condition of the museum's 150 piece Native American collection, under a grant received from the Institute of Museum Sciences. The grant, however, would not fund the restored cradle, the collection's most fragile piece. A Lake County resident, interested in sharing the beauty of Native American artifacts and having them preserved, donated the funds needed to have the cradle restored and Del Re agreed to take on the preservation of this rare artifact.

Stored in a large plastic bag to protect it from moisture and dirt, the cradle had never been professionally examined until Del Re came along. Lake County Museum joins national excellence study

Lake County's own museum is one of a handful of museums participating in a national study on how to serve communities.

"We are in a group of museums in the second phase of the project by the American Association of Museums," Janet Gallimore, director, said. "This is a great honor."

The national study is called "Excellence and Equity." Its main concept is that education and public service are interrelated and are the responsibilities of the entire museum — from board members to visitor services staff, from curators to educators. Lake County Museum was one of 280 museums to apply and one of 12 chosen.

Pam Newton, chairperson of the Environment, Education, Museum and Public Information committee of the Lake County Board, calls the museum a "treasure of Lake County. The recognition is one more component of the treasure we have. The national demonstration project has some esteemed company. We will be one of the museums that will be emulated."

Hoped for results from the study include:

Document the suburban development of Lake County;

Plan, design and implement a documentation strategy, with community leaders, for future collecting;

Make the museum more approachable and increase community involvement;

Increase attendance;

Develop exhibits to reflect current research and audience diversity;

Design interactive exhibits that include high-tech elements and are responsive to visitors.

Newton had a traditional view of museums before she became committee chairperson two years ago.

"I thought museums were a place to go on a rainy day," she said.

The museum is preparing a collection of artifacts from Fort Sheridan which ended its 106-year history last year.

Some 2,100 people watched a Civil War re-enactment despite 90-degree heat. Gallimore is expecting a big crowd for the Farm Heritage and Tractor and Steam Show Sept. 24 and 25.

The annual Firefighter Awareness Day, coordinated by Wauconda Fire Department, is July 10.

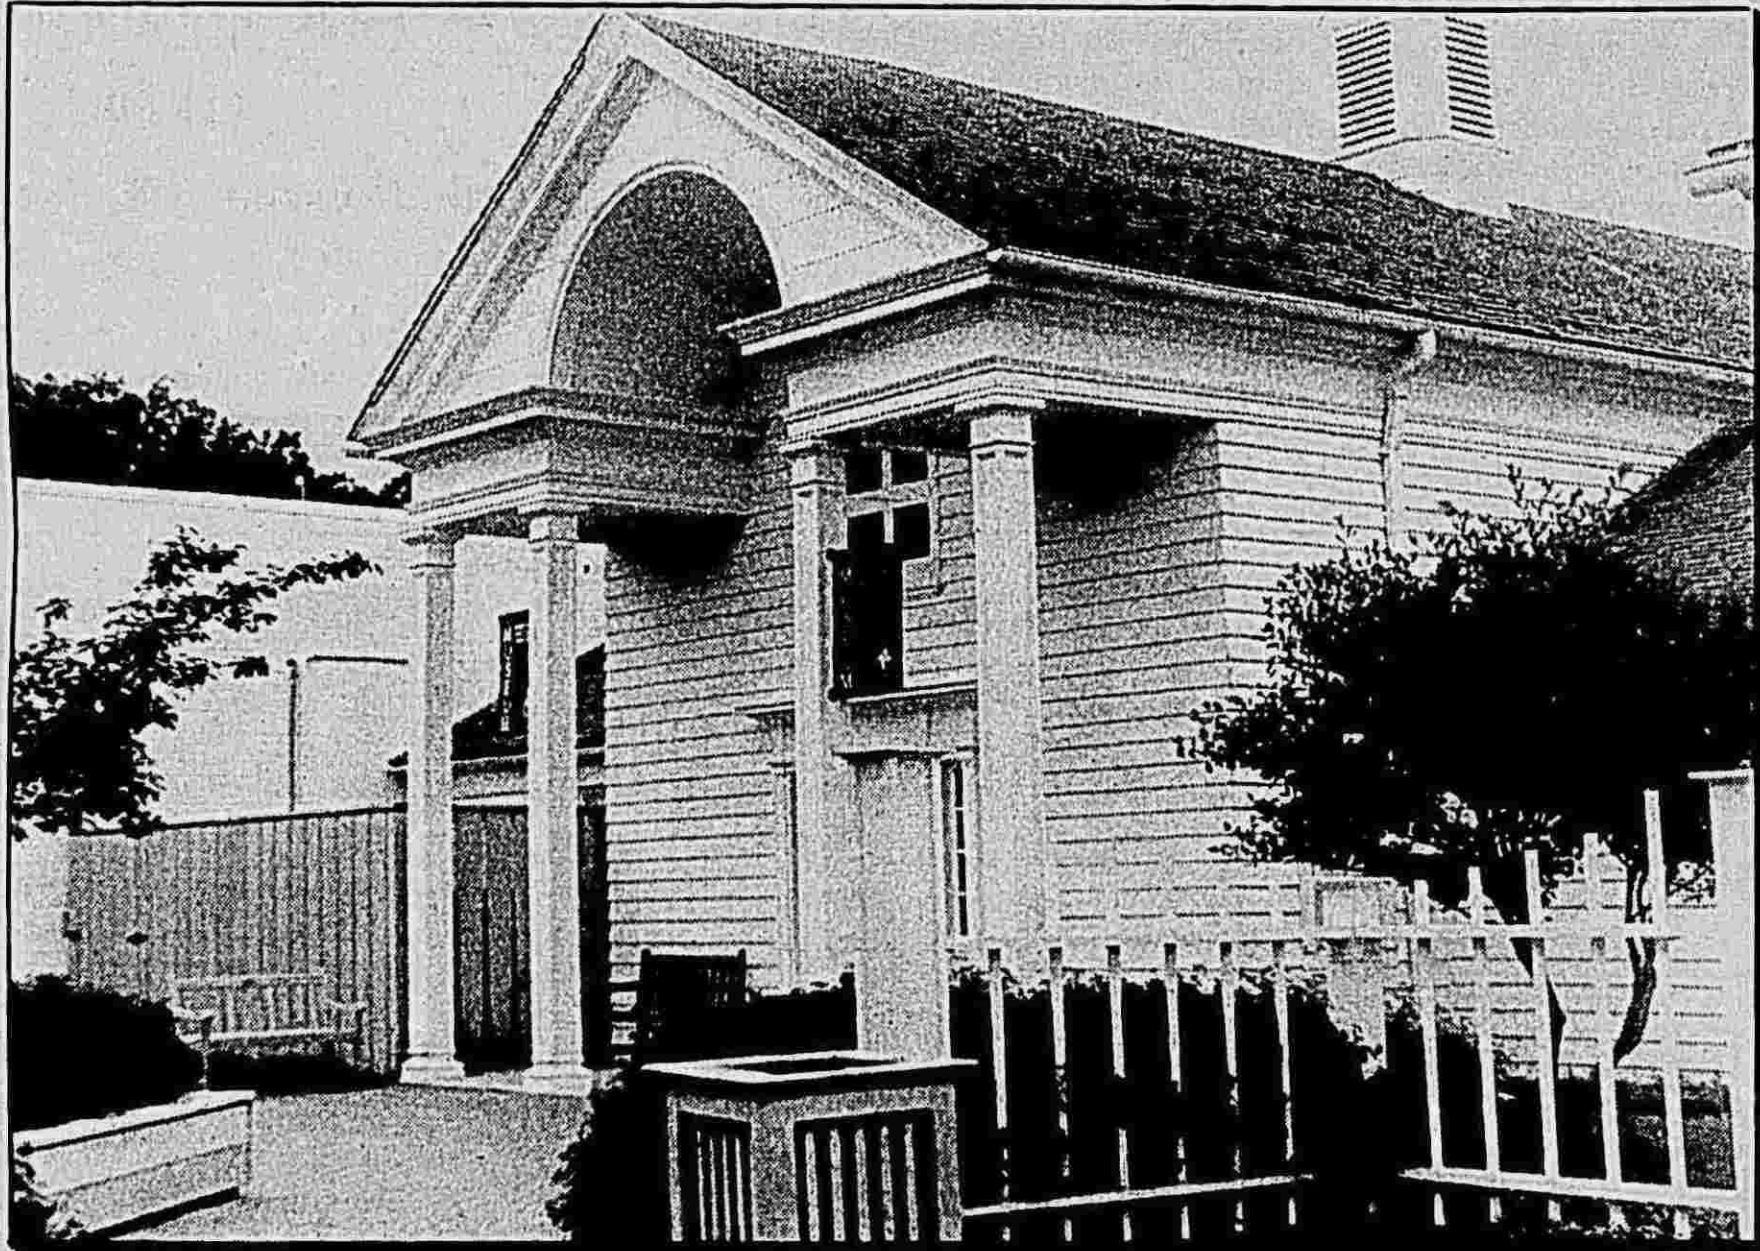

The museum has been meeting its goals since the white building was constructed in 1976 and added on to two years ago.

"Credit for the revitalization of the museum goes to Gallimore. She is the catalyst. People call us the two cheerleaders for the museum," Newton said.

Major exhibits at the museum include a collection of 18,000 objects in the major categories of agricultural items, decorative arts, dolls and toys, household material, military weapons and accoutrements, paintings and graphics, tools and equipment and Native American textiles and projectile points.

The Lake County Regional History Archives includes 1,500 volumes of local and regional history, and more than 10,000 individual manuscripts, business records, personal papers, maps, photographs and school histories.

One of the museum's biggest draws is the Curt Teich

Postcard Collection. Gallimore said individuals doing research to advertising agencies have used the collection.

The museum has achieved interim accreditation through the American Association of Museums.

The museum has a budget of $507,000 with $90,000 coming from non-taxpayer sources.

"We work diligently to balance resources and to develop non-tax revenue," Gallimore said.

The museum is run by a staff of 14 and hundreds of volunteers. It is the largest history agency in the county.

"We have a good time and enjoy coming here," Lois Balmes said.

Balmes and her husband, Jim, volunteer each Thursday. These days, she is cataloging sheet music.

"I work in the library and my husband Jim works in accounting. We look forward to each Thursday," she said.

Balmes became interested in volunteer work after retiring from Warren-Newport Public Library several years ago. "This works well with the Warren Township Historical Society's interest in the Mother Rudd Home. We borrow things from the county museum for our displays," Balmes said.

Janet Gallimore, director of Lake County Museum, stands next to an advertisement for an exhibit on Fort Sheridan. Gallimore, an Antioch resident, oversees day-to-day operations at Museum, located off Rte. 176 near Wauconda.

Colorado's Ski Resorts

A Great Place For A Summer Vacation!

by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Hey, I've got nothing against a sun, sand and water vacation. But, maybe you just want to get away from the summer heat. Maybe you want to get away from the crowds and breathe some fresh mountain air filled with the smell of wild flowers. Maybe a Colorado ski resort is the place for you this summer. And I'm just guessing here, but I'll bet you would also like a bargain. You see those fancy ski condos rent for about half of what you'd pay in the winter! Don't think your only activities will be smelling wild flowers and breathing mountain air, either.

All that snow melts to form mountain streams teeming with fish just waiting to take your bait. You say you want a little more adventure? Hop in a raft for some exciting white water fun.

Need a little exercise? You'll find the well mapped, abandoned railroad beds are perfect for mountain biking.

If you're more the equestrian type, you're in the land of the horse and cowboy. Lively stables abound. A ride along a mountain trail atop a sure footed quarter horse is guaranteed to make you forget about the office back home.

If golf is your game, imagine a round with a cool mountain breeze on your face and a background of majestic mountains. Who cares if you miss a putt or slice your drive.

For something a little less strenuous, hop on a chairlift for a great view of the continental divide or take a jeep tour down and old logging trail.

And then there's the Alpine Slide. For about five bucks you get to fly down the side of a mountain lying on something resembling an oversize skateboard!

No matter which week you pick, there's bound to be some sort of festival going on. Winter Park, for example, has featured Reggae, Jazz, Art, Wine & Food Festivals as well as the Famous Flame-throwers Chili Cook-Off, Flea and Ski Markets, and Mountain Bike Race Series.

Airfares to Denver right now are the best they've been in quite some time. Put that together with a summer discount price on a condo and you've got a decent alternative vacation.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

'A Little Night Music' perfect finale

Stephen Sondheim's "A Little Night Music," though set in turn-of-the-century Sweden, has the feel of a contemporary musical filled with moving songs, juicy dialogue and brilliant sets that glide on and off stage almost as if by magic.

It's a perfect finale to the current season at Chicago's Goodman Theater and easily the best production of the lot.

Marriage is not one of the easier relationships, the couples tracked in the sometimes dark-sided 1973 play discover, along with the truism: "What you really want so rarely happens."

Mark Zimmerman portrays the middle-aged lawyer who finds that marriage to a teen-aged bride, played to flighty perfection by Kimberly Karen Johnson, is no ticket to happiness.

John Herrera is magnificent as the so-called peacock of a count with a pea-sized brain who finds himself entangled in a messy affair with a popular actress. Hollis Resnik shines as his long-suffering spouse.

But it's Paula Scrofano, as Désirée, the famous actress caught between two lovers, who brings down the house with a stunning performance, including a memorable rendition of "Send in the Clowns."

Other solid performances come from Regnin Altay, the lusty maid, and Ann Stevenson Whitney, the worldly wise ex-courtesan. Andy Taylor also puts a lot of energy into his part as Henrik, the son with an attitude.

"A Little Night Music," smoothly directed by Michael Maggio, with a story line from a book by Hugh Wheeler, will run through Aug. 7. Ticket information is available at (312)443-3800.—by TOM WITOM

Good Food

Steak and cheese on the grill

CLAUDIA M. LENART

Regional Editor

Summertime and the air is filled with the scent of steaks grilling. But rather than just plopping a steak on the grill, consider a marinade and cheese.

Muenster cheese is perfect for summer with its mellow flavor. Burgers topped with Muenster make a magnificent cheeseburger. Or for a change form a meat patty around a chunk of cheese.

If you're driving up north, a good place to pick up some fine Muenster cheese is in one of those road side cheese stands. Muenster cheese was one of the first semi-soft cheeses European immigrants made when they came to their new Wisconsin homeland in the 1800s. Today it is one of 250 varieties.

From the Dairy Council of Wisconsin comes the following recipe.

Wisconsin Muenster Cheese and Steak Sandwich

Steak and marinade
 3/4 cup red wine vinegar
 6 tablespoons vegetable oil
 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
 1 teaspoon dry mustard
 3 garlic cloves, minced
 2 teaspoons dried oregano
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 2 to 2 1/2 pounds beef flank steak

Cheese bread

2 loaves French bread, split lengthwise
 1/2 cup butter, softened
 2 garlic cloves, minced
 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Wisconsin Muenster cheese

In a small bowl, combine first seven ingredients. Place steak in non-metal baking dish. Pour marinade over steak. Cover and marinate overnight in refrigerator turning steak occasionally.

Combine butter and garlic, spread on cut bread. Sprinkle each half with 1/2 cup cheese. Wrap halves, side by side in foil, two halves per packet.

Grease grill rack. Grill steak 8 to 10 minutes on each side (medium). Remove steak from grill, put wrapped bread on grill and cover. Cook for 8 to 10 minutes or until cheese melts. Meanwhile, thinly slice steak diagonally across grain. Remove bread. Cut each half into six pieces. Top grilled bread with slices of beef and second bread piece. Makes 12 servings.

LIFE'S A BEAR

DONNA ABEAR

Not necessarily news on the tube

How much news could a newsman tell if a newsman could tell news? The answer is, everything we ever wanted to hear (and even more that we don't), over and over and over.....

Is it just me, or do you think that TV news has gotten way out of hand? It seems as though the honchos at the networks sitting in their ivory offices have gotten the word that we can never get enough news. Who's the idiot who told them that?

Must have been the same idiot who told them we wanted to watch talk shows all day long. I can't help but wonder where they get their information from. I don't know about you, but no one has sent me a survey or anything asking whether or not I was getting enough news from my television. Although, I did get an automated phone call with the recorded voice of Walter Jacobson asking me if I thought

Dan Rostenkowski should get the boot. Too bad I only got to push a button for yes or no. I could have provided them with a very colorful opinion if I'd only had the chance.

Whatever the case may be, we're not only getting too much news; we're getting the same news told in 50 different ways on multiple channels, several times a day. Take the O. J. Simpson tragedy—please. Yes, it was shocking and sad. Yes, it was news; that is, until they turned it into a huge media circus sideshow, reporting unconfirmed information and taking it so far as to having mock trials with celebrated attorneys describing how they'd defend or prosecute the case. Whatever happened to a fair trial? Whatever happened to respect for the victims and their families?

At the rate the networks are adding news shows, combined with the progressively lower reporting standards they seem to have adopted, I can just picture next fall's TV lineup: We'll have Prime Time and Slime Time, Eye on America and Ear to the Wall, 24 hours, 48 Hours and 72 Hours, Dateline and Fateline, 20/20 and 36/24/36, Eye to Eye with Connie Chung, Nose to Nose with a Garden Hose and In Your Ear with a Can of Beer. And that's just Sunday night.

In case they run out of ideas (maybe that's a moot point), I've thought of the perfect name for the ultimate sleazy news show—"Bottom Feeders." Their promo could read, "The muck and nothing but the muck."

As for me, no more TV news—all this muck sucks! Give me a good old-fashioned newspaper. That way, you read the news just once, and then line the bird cage with it. (If only we could do that with Dan Rather!)

Summer swings with nature fun

The cool place for children, families and adults to be this summer is at the Lake County Forest Preserves nature programs for all ages. Throughout July and August, guided nature programs like Eco-Adventures, Native Tales, Urban Prairie, Browsing For Beavers, and Mountain Meander will show people of all ages different views of several Lake County Forest Preserves.

Children ages 7 to 13 can spend a summer of discovery at six different Preserves in Eco-Adventures through Aug. 3. Naturalists will look at the plants and animals at Lakewood, McDonald Woods, and Old School Forest Preserves at 9 a.m., and at Grant Woods Van Patten Woods, and Greenbelt Forest Preserves at 1 p.m. Each two-hour session cost $4.

Join the storyteller's circle at the Fox River Preserve near Barrington for Native Tales, to discover what part plants, animals, and even rocks play in Native American stories. The 90-minute program for ages 6 and up start at 1:30 p.m. on two Saturdays, July 9 and Aug. 6. The fee is $2.

For further details call 948-7750.

Cradle

ventional European cradle with wooden rockers and a modified hood, the materials used to build and decorate the cradle are traditional Native American.

Through the efforts of Del Re, the public can enjoy the elegant beauty of the Native American cradle at the Lake County Museum this August. The cradle will be displayed as part of the new museum exhibit featuring objects from the Native American Collection.

Several other museum objects have been restored with the help of other individuals interested in the preservation of artifacts including a circa 1925 McCormick-Deering tractor and an 1892 Waukegan Fire Department banner. For information on sponsoring artifact restoration, call Elizabeth Marston, Lake County Museum curator of collections, at 526-7878.

The Lake County Museum is located in Lakewood Forest Preserve on Rte. 176, west of Fairfield Road near Wauconda. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 1 to 4:30 p.m. on Sundays. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Movie Pick

Disney does good, not great!

For the first time, Disney Studios has gone with a full-length, all-animal animated movie, with nary an important human in sight.

"The Lion King," which because of its child appeal, may be the biggest money-maker of the summer, does deal with many more human than animalistic emotions, and the real stars may be the very human voices of the famous actors that play the main animal characters.

First we have the bombastic James Earl Jones, as regal as can be as Mufasa, the Lion King of the Jungle. Matthew Broderick does the voice of his grown-up son, Simba, who comes out of the exile he took to after his father's mysterious death, to take his rightful place as the jungle's top honcho.

Whoopie Goldberg's voice is aptly conspiratorial as one of the bad hyenas, and Moira Kelly sounds as pretty as she really is as the voice of the lioness who will inevitably serve as Simba's queen of the jungle, if he regains his father's throne from his nasty old uncle, Scar. Scar sounds suspiciously like the biggest, stuffiest and snottiest villain of all, (since George Sanders that is!) Jeremy

The Lion King and friends.

Irons. Hark, do we hear echoes of Shakespeare's "Hamlet" here?

The audience cries and laughs with our four-legged heroes, heroines and villains, and like most Disney pics we have the big flood of tears during the inevitable tragedy scene, when Mufasa is killed. So here again rises the argument of whether or not children need be exposed to tragedy when they are supposedly being entertained.

Elton John does the movie's musical honors, but we find most of them below the Disney prize-winning musical par, although "Circle of Life" could go somewhere!

Maybe the months of over-hype (but what's new here?), the constant sight of all the Lion King paraphernalia jamming the stores for weeks before the film opened, had this reviewer expecting more. Yet the same thing was done with "Aladdin" and we loved it.

It's a must for the kids, but despite many other adult reviewers to the contrary, we don't see the grown-ups going nuts over this one, so we'll give Simba and friends four out of five stars because we found it to be very good, but not as great as its trailers promised. But then, that's not surprising?—by GLORIA DAVIS

Fresh, delicious food at moderate prices

People who have been to The Buffalo Bar & Grill say the restaurant has the best buffalo wings around. The owners of the restaurant appreciate the accolades but point out that their buffalo wings are only one example of the fresh quality foods prepared daily at The Buffalo.

You can taste the difference that freshness makes at the Buffalo. You can taste the difference with soup that is made with fresh vegetables, meats and soup bases and never from mixes. You can taste the difference with ribs that are hickory smoked on site. You can taste the difference with salads that are only prepared fresh immediately after you order them. Look down the menu, order anything you want, and you will taste the difference that food prepared fresh will make for your taste buds.

The regular menu is extensive to say the least. It ranges from American dishes, to Italian, to Mexican. Patrons are always assured of the finest quality and freshness at a moderate price. You can get a number of complete entrees for around $8.

If you're having a party at your place or theirs, The Buffalo Bar & Grill can accommodate you. When the weather is right, you can have a party outdoors on one of their enclosed patios. From cookouts to theme parties, to weddings, the professional catering staff can handle it all.

For entertainment, stop over in the bar for something cool. The country bar features live country music from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. on Friday and Saturday and dance lessons Wednesday through Friday. Another area features a D.J. with top 40 music at the same time. The main bar areas boast seven television screens—one of them is a big screen—and you can link up and play games like QB1 on the interactive satellite network. Laser karaoke is featured Wednesday through Saturday.

Come on out to the Buffalo Bar & Grill, at 1760 N. Milwaukee Ave in Libertyville. It is open Mon. 4-10 p.m., Tues.-Fri. 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., Sat. 5-10 p.m. and closed Sun. Extra hours on Friday and Saturday night are until 2 a.m. the next morning. You can call the restaurant at 362-8202.

THE SILO
Rte. 176, Lake Bluff
(708) 234-6660

The Silo has the best pizza

When one comes to The Silo in Lake Bluff for a sumptuous pizza feast, it doesn't take that person long to realize they are in for quite a treat. Accolades abound for The Silo's specialty, which has been voted the best pan pizza on the North Shore by the Chicago Tribune, and is said to be "a superior version of Chicago style pan pizza" by Chicago Magazine.

Their varied assortment of pizza delights include supreme, vegetarian, seafood, taco, spinach soufflé, and lasagna. If diehards are not satisfied with these complete pizzas, they can load on extra sausage, mushrooms, pepperoni, ground beef, bacon, Canadian bacon, ham, pineapple, anchovies, black olives, onions, green peppers, jalapeno peppers, fresh garlic, sliced tomatoes, broccoli, zucchini, yellow squash, and of course, extra cheese.

Even though pizza connoisseurs will be treated like royalty, one should not assume that The Silo is merely a pizza place. They have a full menu that includes baby back ribs, 4 chicken breast dishes, 7 pasta dishes, 7 varieties of baked potatoes, 22 sandwich choices, 16 appetizers, 6 soups and salads, and some heart healthy servings.

Every Sunday evening from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., the whole family can be entertained by Tom "BOZ" The Magician. BOZ has appeared on Bozo's Circus, NBC TV, Fox TV, and at The Pump Room.

The family owned restaurant has developed a warm atmosphere for dining and the staff is highly service oriented and more importantly, very friendly. Their loft affords ample banquet space for large groups.

The Silo, located at 625 Rockland Road (Rte. 176), in Lake Bluff, is open 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mon. through Thurs., 11 a.m. to 12 midnight Fri. and Sat., and 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. Sundays. Their phone is (708)234-6660.

Hines Lumber building new Hainesville site

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

Although Hainesville agreed on a lumber company, they wanted it to fit in with the oldest incorporated village in Lake County.

So Mac Hines, of Edward Hines Lumber Co., went out and hired an architect—the first time ever for an outside designer (Hines usually uses in-house architects).

Hines wanted to get the feel for the community, a feel for what they desired, in maintaining a country motif.

Exposed trusses, and an open and airy feeling is what was formed for the planned 32,000 square foot facility—one of Hines larger stores.

Mayor George Benjamin told how the new lumber company will fit into the village nicely. "You know history is being made when a 102-year-old company comes to a 148-year-old town."

A few weeks ago the former Grayslake Gelatin Company site had to be altered. A two story farm house and a 7,500 square foot loafing barn was set ablaze by practicing firefighters from both the Round Lake and the Fox Lake fire districts.

Although officials in the fast growing village of Hainesville are elated with the new business soon to be in town, the mayor expressed a bittersweet reminder.

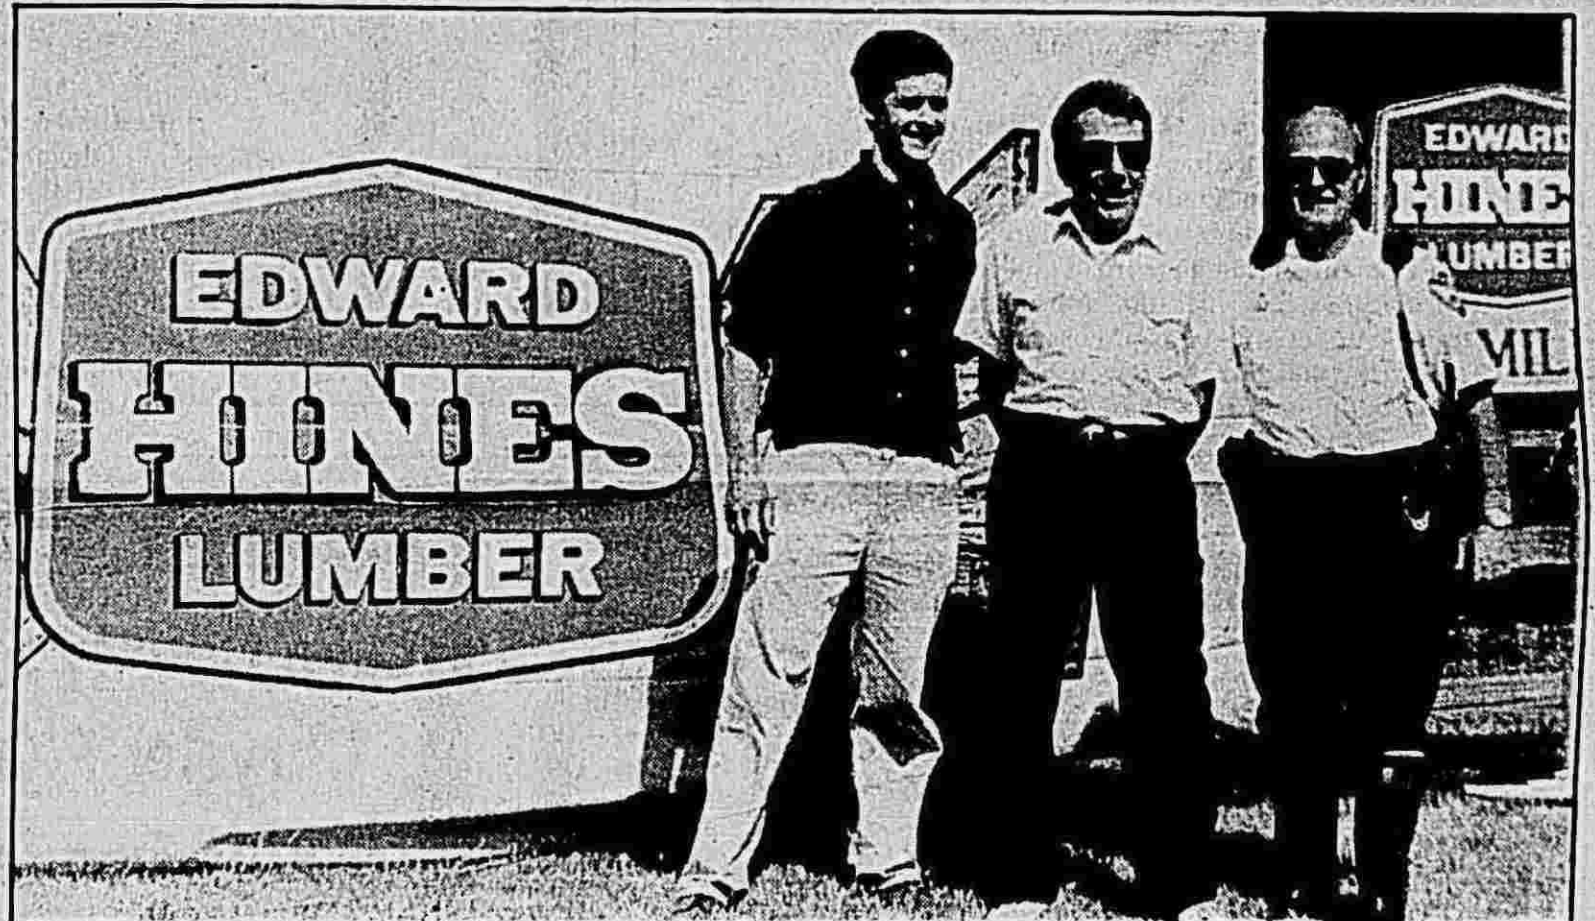

"We're losing a little bit of history," said Benjamin.

Village Historian Joanne Johnson explained the home was at least a hundred years old and was originally located at the corner of Fairfield Rd. and Rte. 120.

In the 1920s it was then moved to the site on Rte. 120 and Hainesville Rd.

After the burndown, Hines Lumber put on a picnic, sort of a "groundbreaking" ceremony to celebrate their new building.

The silos are still up, but other than that, everything should be ready to go as soon as possible. The company aims to open the business in early 1995.

Mac Hines of the Hines Lumber Company stands proudly with Hainesville Mayor George Benjamin and Police Chief Joseph Policky after a house and barn burning took place. The Rte. 120 /Hainesville Rd. site was cleared to make way for a new 32,000 square foot lumber company. The new facility will hopefully be open early in 1995.—Photo by Tina Swiech

EHS Health Care could merge with Lutheran General Health System

EHS Health Care, Oak Brook, and Lutheran General HealthSystem, Park Ridge, have approved a letter of intent which could lead to a merger of the two organizations.

The combined, Chicago area health care organization that would result if the merger is completed would have annual net revenues of more than $1.2 billion, over 19,000 employees, 3,550 physicians and would be one of the largest and most accessible health networks in Chicagoland with 177 sites of care.

"Both EHS, which is related to the United Church of Christ, and LGHS, sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, have a history of community service to the medically disadvantaged that is rooted in their shared religious values, charitable mission and wholistic care for the individual," Richard Phillips, M.D., LGHS board chairperson said.

"The proposed merger of EHS Health Care and Lutheran General HealthSystem not only has importance for the people we serve in the Chicagoland area, but it is a positive example of inter-church cooperation in the nation as it struggles with health care reform," said Rev. Dr. Paul H. Sherry, president of the United Church of Christ.

EHS Health CARE

History

Founded in 1906, EHS Health Care originally was formed by a predecessor church of the United Church of Christ to operate the German Evangelical Deaconess Hospital in Chicago. Since 1961 EHS has become one of the largest, fully integrated health care providers in metropolitan Chicago.

Mission and values

EHS Health Care is committed to developing the resources and structure to provide quality, cost-effective health care to meet the needs of individuals, families and our society. The mission commitment grows from a Christian belief that a faithful response to the ministry of Jesus Christ requires the ministry of the whole person to promote the wellness of body, mind and spirit. EHS is guided by key values of quality, equality, learning, compassion and unity.

Outpatient centers and physicians office buildings

Operator of numerous outpatient centers and physicians office buildings in its hospital service areas. Largest are the High Tech Medical Park in Palos Heights and the Good Samaritan Medical Center-Naperville Campus and Oakbrook Terrace Campus.

Ethics

EHS is a leader in medical ethics, sponsoring national ethics conferences on an annual basis.

Medical school and teaching affiliations

EHS Health Care has an academic affiliation with the University of Illinois at Chicago College of Medicine. The UIC's focus on training primary care physicians as well as an outstanding record of educating minority and women physicians ties the university closely to EHS' strategic direction and its philosophy and mission. EHS Trinity Hospital and EHS Ravenswood Hospital Medical Center both operate a School of Radiologic Technology.

LUTHERAN GENERAL HealthSystem

History

Lutheran General Hospital opened on December 24, 1959, in Park Ridge. The hospital/system continued rapid growth throughout the 1960's, 1970's and 1980's developing new services to meet the needs of older adults and chemically addicted individuals.

Mission and values

LGHS is committed to a comprehensive approach that effectively and efficiently meets the needs of those they serve. Their mission, which is an integral part of the healing and teaching ministry of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, demands that their practices demonstrate concern for the whole person—body, mind, emotions, spirit and relationships. LGHS upholds the following values: respect, servanthood, stewardship, creativity and collaboration.

Outpatient centers and physicians office buildings

LGHS owns and operates the Parkside Center and the Nessel Health Care Center. Both facilities are located in Park Ridge. Lutheran General Hospital co-owns with 50 of its physicians the Golf Surgical Center in Des Plaines.

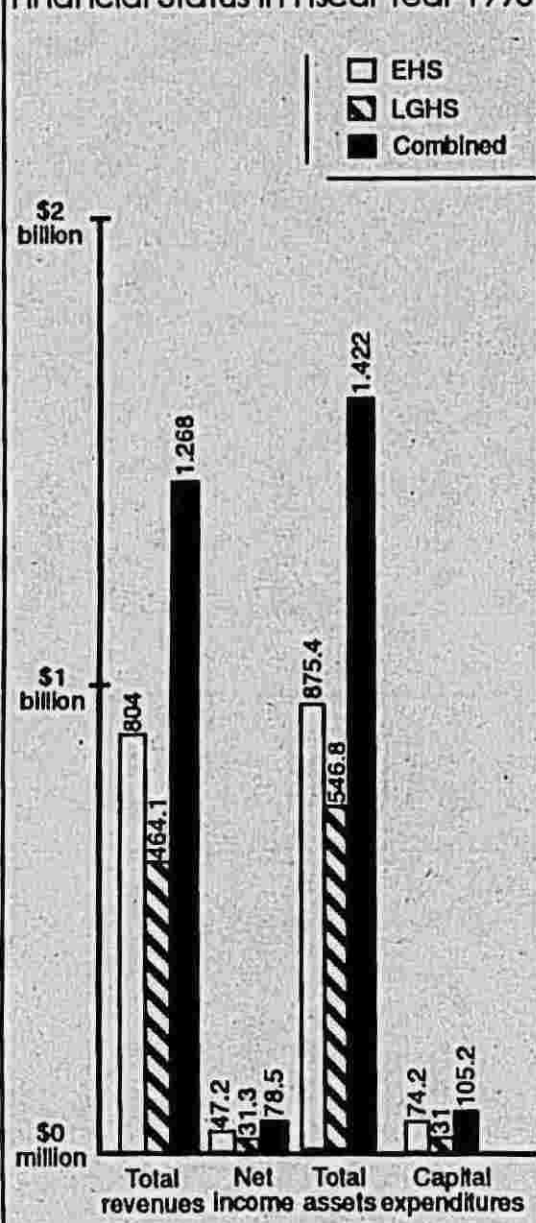

Ethics

The Park Ridge Center has a satellite program at Lutheran General Hospital's center for clinical ethics and medical humanities.

Medical school and teaching affiliations

Lutheran General Hospital is an affiliated teaching hospital of the University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine. It is also the largest, independent academic medical center in Illinois. LGH graduates more primary care physicians than any other independent medical center in the state. Nursing school affiliations are extensive, including, but not limited to, Elmhurst College, Loyola University, University of Illinois and Northern Illinois University.

INVESTMENT TRENDS

Noah A. Seldenberg,
Investment Representative of Edward D. Jones & Co.

Local stocks offer good opportunity

The market is moving. Recent swings in the stock market have caused some investors to fear and avoid one of the potentially greatest investment opportunities to come along lately. With the recent dip in the stock market, by buying good quality stocks, an investor is able to get a very good price. That is, the stock market has moved lower in recent weeks because of concerns over higher interest rates, inflation and the strength of the dollar. All of these concerns are actually reasons to be investing in stocks now.

The three companies we will talk about today are local companies which fall into this class of stocks whose price has declined because of market conditions, but with no fundamental change in their own businesses or companies.

AT&T Corp (symbol T-New York Stock Exchange)

AT&T goes by many names. Formerly American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the official name is now AT&T corp. The company is also sometimes known simply as Telephone. By whatever name you call this company, the stock certainly is inviting. This behemoth of a company was once a boring company who simply provided the phone service for you. They are now a diverse, growing company with unlimited potential.

As bills move through congress now allowing the "Bells" into long distance, this will open doors for AT&T as it allows them to compete in the local service market. This combined with increased equipment sales are very strong signs for the company. In addition, AT&T is seen as a leader on the technological highway as the idea of interactive TV, video phone and other breakthroughs get closer to reality.

In recent developments, AT&T was just awarded a $4 billion dollar contract with Saudi Arabia to help improve their communications system, as well as a multi-billion dollar contract with Bell Atlantic.

At a recent price of about $55 per share, AT&T yields about 2.4 percent and their earnings are expected to grow approximately 10 percent annually. Of the 34 analysts who follow AT&T, 24 rate it a buy or better, with 19 analysts rating it a strong buy.

Dean Witter, Discovery & Co. (symbol DWD-NYST)

This local company which deals with money transactions in both its major units, seems to be able to do nothing but print money when it comes to earnings. The two major segments are brokerage firm Dean Witter, and credit card issuer Discover Card.

Both primary business units have been doing extremely well since the spin-off from Sears in June of 1993. Dean Witter, as many brokerage firms have, has been increasing business as low interest rates have forced many people from the sidelines and CDs into better yielding investments. On the other side, Discover has profited with their no annual fee and cash back from purchases card that has been received so well.

A strong sign for DWD was the announcement in late April of a four million share stock buyback. This is done as the company has a good deal of cash on hand and wants to improve shareholder value.

Earnings for 1993 were up 37 percent on 12 higher revenues with the first quarter of 1994 coming in at plus 54 percent on 15 percent higher revenues.

Abbott Laboratories (symbol ABT-NYSE)

This larger local employer has been a millionaire maker for many long term investors, however, its results in the last two years have many investors wondering what to do now. The answer is hang on. Currently yielding about 2.5 percent, ABT will pay a dividend equal to your money in the bank, while the company shows continued potential for steady but not spectacular growth. Analysts are now calling the company a very good buy for someone looking to get reasonable growth with limited downside risk.

Although the concerns about the Clinton health care proposal continue to abound, Abbott keeps plugging away developing new products to treat asthma and other ailments as well as providing a strong contingent on the hospital supply and infant formula fronts.

Zurek wins prestige

Edward Zurek of Libertyville, outgoing president of the Chicago and Northeastern Illinois Association of Health Underwriters, has become the second person Zurek ever to capture two prestigious awards in the same year from the National Association of Health Underwriters (NAHU). Zurek made history last year by becoming the first person to achieve this double honor.

The Washington, D.C.-based association in June awarded Zurek the Golden Eagle and Distinguished Service awards at its convention in New Orleans. He was one of 14 people nationwide to win the Golden Eagle for being in the top one percent of salespeople and one of 10 people to earn distinguished service honors for service to the industry.

Zurek, 45, also captured the NAHU's First Annual Presidential Citation Award that acknowledges his significant contributions to the association and recognizes him as one of its 10 best local chapter presidents.

Also under Zurek's leadership, the Chicago and Northeastern Illinois Association of Health Underwriters took home the NAHU Pacesetter Award in honor of its overall service to members, the community and national organizations.

Zurek has been group benefits manager for Goldstein Financial Corp. of Northbrook since 1989. He assumes the presidency of the Illinois Association of Health Underwriters in July and continues to serve as legislative chairman of the Illinois Association of Health Underwriters.

Vacation checklist for home-sellers

You've been panning this vacation for a year. Everything seems to be in order as you mentally run through the list of things to be packed, tickets in your pocket and the car is fueled and ready to go. Your home is being marketed by an agent, so you feel comfortable that you have covered everything for the 10 days you will be out of the home. There are some very important aspects of the professional marketing of your home that you will need to consider.

•Your agent will need to know how to reach you in the event that an offer is made on your property. Be advised that even if you have already set up a "power of attorney" agreement, you as the seller will have to make the final decisions on the details of the sale.

•Even a few days away requires some exterior upkeep when it comes to landscaping. The fee for a professional landscaping company to cut the lawn and trim is nominal compared to the look of an unkempt property. First impressions are powerful and worth the extra money to insure top curb appeal. If you have a dependable neighbor pick up newspapers and door hangers so the home does not look abandoned.

•Attention should also be given to the kitchen area. Let's assume that the home is perfectly staged for terrific showings. Be extra sure all wastebaskets are emptied, especially the kitchen. Before leaving, put some baking soda down the garbage disposal and kitchen drains. Often times the lack of water activity in the drain systems is the perfect set up for stale and unpleasant odors to develop. Remove bowls of fruit from the counters that will be over ripe upon your return. Empty all ashtrays, clean and tuck away to eliminate stale smoking smells. Try to arrange for dirty laundry to be washed and put away while you're away. Damp towels and gym socks get even worse when left in warm muggy weather.

•During warm and humid weather, air conditioning should be left on a comfortable setting. It is understandable to want to conserve, but hot and musty homes are a turn off for a buyer. Odors become more prevalent when they are aided by lack of fresh air and hot conditions. Kitty boxes, old doggie blankets and worn tennis shoes need to be removed as well. Don't make the mistake of saving a few utility dollars and losing a buyer. Investing in a set back thermostat is a good idea for summer of winter utility needs.

Although closing drapes and blinds keeps the heat out, it also makes the home show dark and drab. Keep a few lights on to help the home look bright and occupied. Remember that when you shop at your favorite department store the lights and music are on before you get there, making your

Enjoy your vacation, knowing you have covered all the steps to come home to a house marked "sold!"

Lakehurst Mall announces smoke-free policy

Officials of the Richard E. Jacobs Group, owner and manager of Lakehurst Mall, have announced that Lakehurst Mall will implement a smoke-free policy effective July 1, 1994.

The announcement was made by the Jacobs Group Regional Manager, Ronald J. Brinza, who stated that the policy would affect the mall's interior concourse.

"We've made this decision after analysis of many customer comments we've received as well as the growing amount of evidence pointing to the potential health hazards posed by secondary smoke," said Brinza. "While we very much respect the wishes of those who do smoke, our first concern has to be for the health of all customers, employees, and the approximately 3,000 people who work in Lakehurst's retail stores."

This policy extends to the mall common areas and all work spaces controlled by the mall owner. Lakehurst's upcoming smoke-free policy will be in 100 percent compliance with the Illinois Clean Air Act, which went into effect, July, 1990. Mall restaurants are encouraged to adopt a similar smoke-free policy, but the decision to do so is the responsibility of each store's owner or management company.

Lakehurst Mall implemented a "designated smoking area" policy on July 1, 1992, limiting smoking areas to approximately 10 percent of the mall's common area spaces. The smoke free policy will be communicated to customers via mall signing and through information provided by mall security officers and the mall's customer service center.

Lakehurst Mall was originally opened in 1971, and purchased by the Richard R. Jacobs Group in 1982. Lakehurst is part of a portfolio of over 40 malls in 15 states which are owned and managed by the Richard E. Jacobs Group. Long established as one of the nation's largest shopping center development firms, the Richard E. Jacobs Group has its headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio, and owns malls in Madison, Brookfield and Wausau, Wis., as well as Rockford and Niles.

Gems speak love's language

Colored gemstones have a long, romantic history that can bring another level of meaning to the gift of a ring.

The lush, green color of the emerald represents love and rebirth. Topaz symbolizes the sun.

Amethyst brings peace and tranquility. Aquamarine adds a soothing influence to marital discord and has the power to ensure a long and happy marriage.

Colored gemstones often have an attraction for couples looking for something more unusual than a diamond to express their own personal symbolism. They choose a gem based on its mystical ties, a birthstone or even a favorite color.

The wide selection of gemstones available means every couple can find a gem to suit their tastes and budget. But choosing a colored gemstone can be more difficult than picking out a conventional diamond solitaire. The International Colored Gemstone Assn. offers some tips for selecting the right gemstone for your ring.

First, choose a gemstone variety from the dozens available; find a store that can show you a broad selection. The most popular choices for gemstone engagement and wedding rings are the most well-known colored gemstones: sapphire, ruby and emerald. Other more exotic, but equally beautiful and rare gemstones can be surprisingly affordable: consider gems such as spinel, garnet, tourmaline and aquamarine.

Within each gemstone variety, quality, of course, dramatically affects price. In general, smaller gemstones of higher quality appreciate more over time than larger stones of lower quality. Quality and value are evaluated according to the "four Cs"—color, clarity, cut and carat weight.

Color is the most important factor for determining quality. Within each variety, a clear, medium-tone, very intense and saturated primary color is usually the most preferred. Muted color and colors between hues are generally less expensive.

The next most important factor affecting value is clarity, with gemstones with no visible flaws being the most valued.

A good cut is something that may not cost more, but may enhance a gemstone's beauty. A well-cut faceted gemstone reflects light evenly across its surface area when held face up. If the stone is too deep and narrow, areas will be dark. If it is too shallow and wide, areas will be washed out and lifeless. The carat weight also affects the price; large gemstones are more rare, so the price per carat is higher.

In general, gemstone pricing within each variety follows common sense: the more beautiful the gemstone, with the final visual effect of all the quality factors, the more valuable it is. Trust your instincts and choose the gemstone that speaks to you!

Engagement to honeymoon— how to get real wedding know-how

The wedding day: that divine time signaling the start of a new life together, heralded in with vows, the kiss, dancing, music, flowers, food, fun and laughter. Planning her wedding may be the single most stressful, but most joyous, undertaking a woman will ever face. It's the final realization that dreams do come true—after all, she is marrying the mate of her dreams.

Once the decision to marry is made, the prospective bride and groom—and their families—have a lot to think about and many details to attend to in preparation for the wedding. Careful and timely planning—airing preferences, listing choices and making decisions on schedule—can help eliminate much of the natural tension and anxiety from this emotional occasion.

Timing is of the essence, and every detail must be assigned a priority. Ask any bride-who's-been: Planning a dream wedding can turn into a nightmare of impossible deadlines and unforeseen costs.

Making a foolproof, detailed wedding checklist, emphasizing exactly what to do and when to do it, will help eliminate most of the pre-wedding stress. The bride's checklist should be all-inclusive and should be geared toward the bride and groom's and both of their families' needs, desires and special considerations.

Therefore, it's a good idea to divide your list into six separate lists: six months to one year before the wedding, three to four months before, two months, one month, two weeks and one week.

Also, you may want to obtain an essential, comprehensive handbook for busy brides-to-be. "Secrets of Successful Brides" (St. Martin's Press), by Suzanne Kresse, is a recently released guide that covers every aspect of the wedding experience, from the engagement announcement and parties, ceremony and reception to picking a caterer, choosing the wedding party, and shopping for and choosing a gown. Kresse, who is considered one of America's foremost authorities on weddings, also includes information on the guest list, invitations, flowers, church floral and candle decorations, music and entertainment, arranging the rehearsal dinner and more.

In addition to the bride's list and a guidebook, it's important for the bride-to-be to not overlook what could be her most valuable planning asset, the advice and suggestions of the real wedding experts—women who have been "through it" and who can offer precious guidance and inside information that could prove invaluable. Women, family and friends, who have been through the wedding experience are often the bride's biggest resource for planning suggestions and tips. But be careful; some relatives may be prone to meddling.

And it's important that the bride keep all their opinions in perspective—after all, it's her day!

Easy tips on picking perfect wedding flowers

The hardest thing about choosing floral arrangements is deciding between all of the different varieties available. The following tips should make the decisions easier.

- Start shopping for a florist four to six months before your wedding.

- Ask florists you're considering to show you photos of the weddings they've done in the past.

- Consider the overall style of your wedding when choosing arrangements. Freestanding sprays of daisies or chrysanthemums are nice for the altar.

- Small arrangements are often used to encircle candle holders. Some options are baby's breath or tea roses. Small bouquets tied with ribbon dress up aisle seats.

- Florists should be asked if they supply the white aisle runner that is unrolled before the bride enters.

- The bridal bouquet should be the star of the show containing flowers in colors matching the bridesmaids' dresses mixed with traditional whites.

- Bridesmaids' flowers should be similar to yours but less elaborate. Consider a wreath of flowers or blossoms on combs for their hair. The flowers should match their dresses as well.

- A basket of rose petals or a tiny bouquet is perfect for the flower girl.

- The groom's boutonniere should be a flower contained in your bouquet, and it should be similar to the ushers' but more elaborate.

- Dads, ushers and special male guests should wear flowers matching the bridesmaids' dresses or traditional white or ivory.

- Order corsages for the mothers of the bride and groom as well as other honored female guests. Keep the colors of their dresses in mind as much as possible when ordering.

- Centerpieces for the tables should fit in with the style and color of the other arrangements.

Keep these arrangements low enough or well above eye level to ensure they do not interfere with conversation.

- The florist can make an extra bouquet for you to toss if you choose to keep your bouquet.

- Think of other places you might like to have floral arrangements. The cake table at the reception, on top of the cake or at the end of the receiving line are several options.

- An arrangement should be made for your home if photos will be taken there before the wedding.

Keep silver looking as good as new

Sterling silver, whether it is a traditional or modern style, is a popular wedding gift for the bride and groom and a wonderful addition to their home. Here are some tips to help them care for their silver.

- Wash silverware (refers to both sterling silver flatware and hollow ware such as teapots, trays, sugar bowls and creamers) in hot, sudsy water, then rinse in clean, hot water.

- Clean crevices with a worn toothbrush or fine natural-bristle brush. To avoid spotting, immediately dry the pieces with a chamol or soft cotton cloth.

- Polish silverware with a soft cotton or flannel cloth and a brand-name liquid or paste silver polish. Dip polishes are not suggested on intricately detailed pieces; it will remove an oxidized pattern as well as tarnish.

- Rub a piece lengthwise; never polish crosswise or with a circular motion, as this may cause scratches. If you use your silverware regularly, expect to polish it just once or twice a year.

- Avoid wrapping silverware in plastic, aluminum foil or newspaper, or binding flatware with rubber bands, which can result in damage.

- Store silverware in an airtight silver chest or in protective bags made of tarnish-proof cloth.

A groom's guide to good wedding day grooming

After months of planning, the big day has finally arrived. A wedding march has begun, the bride is being bustled, the guests are settled and all eyes are on—the groom!

While there are many wedding day rituals to ensure a beautiful bride, it is just as important for a groom to be well-groomed. But men know that a little preparation can go a long way. On average, they spend 23 minutes grooming themselves each day; on special occasions, 31 minutes.

Following are some wedding-day tips to ensure the groom looks and feels his best. After all, it's his special day, too!

Hair care

The best hairstyle for a groom? Something classic and neat that won't look dated in wedding-day pictures. And because men's hair tends to grow fast, have your hair cut during the week before your wedding for the freshest look.

Starting smart

Eat a light, healthy breakfast to boost your energy for the day. Try a bowl of oatmeal or natural cereal with fruit or nuts and nonfat milk, a grapefruit, a glass of juice and a cup of decaffeinated coffee or tea.

No-nick shaving

Shower or bathe before you shave, and wash the face and neck with warm water. It takes about two minutes of soaking to achieve optimal beard softening for a comfortable shave. Apply plenty of shaving cream or gel to keep beard hair moist during the shave; try a sensitive skin or aloe-enriched shaving cream or gel.

Scentsational accessories

When walking down the aisle, it's important to put one's best face forward. To replenish moisture and soften skin, aftershave skin conditioners are ideal.

Nail news

Men everywhere are handing their hands over to manicurists. Nails are cut, cleaned and buffed. Cuticles are trimmed or pushed back. Hands are soaked and massaged. A great look for the groom? Short nails that just exceed fingertips, with square or round tips.

Wedding day duds

Formalwear is determined by time of day and formality of wedding. Even if yours is a black-tie affair, make sure your tuxedo is comfortable. The key to looking comfortable and confident is feeling comfortable and confident. Clothes that are too tight or mismatched for your body type will make you look ill-at-ease and feel awkward and uncomfortable.

Photos make memories last

The planning of your wedding photo album is very important. Hiring a professional photographer who specializes in weddings is the only way to get professional-quality photos.

Start looking for a photographer as soon as you can—preferably six months before your wedding. Friends and family can give referrals on local photographers who do quality work. When you've narrowed down your choices, use work samples from others' weddings to help you make the final selections. Look for sharp, clear pictures with flattering lighting and nice composition. Make sure you meet with the actual photographer who will be shooting your wedding. Many studios have several photographers who specialize in weddings.

The photographer should shoot a formal portrait for your newspaper announcement. Decide, with the photographer, what type of pictures you'd like for your album. Formal and posed, candid and lively or a mixture. You should also review the important traditional moments you want the photographer to shoot as well. Keep a running list and add shots as they come to mind.

Some photographers offer special packages that include the prints and the charge for their shooting time in one price. Others charge separately for these and allow you to purchase prints and albums separately. Most photographers will request a deposit—from one-third to one-half of the total when you sign the contract. Make sure the contract includes the name of the photographer, times and places he or she will be shooting, total charge, delivery date, who owns the negatives and what will happen if you need to change the date or cancel.

Peter Fox, center with sons Peter (L) and Michael a few months ago.

Peter E. Fox 1909-1994

My father died in his sleep last Thursday night. He was either 83, 84 or 85. No one really knows. The story is he lied about his age when he was very young to enlist in the Army. After one year, he transferred to the Navy and served eight years more.

I am his youngest at 48. My dad left 2 sons, 2 daughters, 13 grandchildren and 7 great-grandchildren. We all will miss him.

Dad was an idealist, he was concerned with right and wrong and always tried to know the difference. He was a dreamer, always chasing a vision of a better life. He was a failure; he never struck it rich. He was a winner; he lived his life by his own measure. He was a lover of truth; he was a true philosopher. He was a student by always seeking knowledge and wisdom. In doing so he was the ideal teacher. He often told me the only way to teach is by example. He was foolish because he thought all problems were simple, yet wise because he knew all problems are but temporary. He was, in a sense the ultimate optimist. He was happy.

Dad was not very big, but he had the rare strength of a man with convictions born of his own mind and spirit. He believed in himself and the human spirit. He never went to doctors. He believed in the body's ability to heal itself, and fasted often, sometimes alarmingly as long as 44 days. He believed he alone was responsible for his own acts. He disliked ceremony. He believed his soul would live on in another dimension, in another life. Accordingly he was cremated the day he died, his ashes to be spread on the waters of Lake Michigan.

All who knew him are the better for it. He was an uncommon man. He was my Dad.

Michael D. Fox

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I interviewed for a job last month that was supposed to start after Labor Day. Last Friday the company called my house throughout the day, leaving messages informing me that I was to start the job the next day. While I did receive those messages, I did not respond due to the fact that I had already made plans with friends for Saturday. I figured the company would think that I hadn't gotten the message, they would understand. The following Monday I called the company to find out when I could start the job and they told me that when they didn't hear from me they decided to fill the job with someone else who started today. I had been waiting for three weeks for this job and it was important to me. I feel they should have given me a chance. What can I do? C.K. - Waukegan.

A: Dear C.K. Look for another job! After reading your letter as to how important this job was to you, makes the question where your priorities were. Friends are great but don't sign your paychecks. I could understand your questioning this, if in fact you had not received the messages that this company needed you to start the next day. However, to admit to me that you deliberately blew off the starting day makes me further question your not understanding why the job has been given to someone who showed up to work when asked.

Q: Where can I go to get a resume done for myself for a reasonable cost? I just graduated college and I am finding that there are services out there that are charging more than I can afford. W.G. - Lake Villa.

A: Dear W.G. The local library has several books on how to write a resume. Find a format that works well for you and gear it towards your information. Any quick printing shop will print your information on good stock paper and you're ready to go. Of course this doesn't work for everyone. The more in depth and technical your information is, the more important it is for you to have a professional resume writer handle the task. If you feel this is the way you want to go, you can call me for a list of services out there. Don't forget to proofread your work.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy at 5101 Washington St., Gurnee, IL 60031.

Die-hard Cub fan Taylor ready for new Carmel post

Bill Taylor and Andy Bitto in Carmel's gymnasium which was completed last year.— Photo by Steve Peterson

Bill Taylor remembers how many a school-day afternoon ended:

"I would run home from school just to catch the last few innings of the Cubs game. They would always have the 10th inning show. I would watch that," Taylor said.

Taylor went on to have a stellar career as a pitcher at Zion-Benton High School. He even reached Class AA ball in the Athletics organization before realizing a big-league career was not in the offing.

That dream ended, Taylor then embarked on a new one.

Not an auspicious start, he began as a lunchroom monitor at Carmel High School. "I had a bachelor's degree, but I was picking up kids' lunch trays. In hopes I would get in somehow," he said.

Taylor, maybe from his days as a Zee-Bee, has always had a stick-to-it attitude and his patience paid off as he was named Carmel's new assistant athletic director. He replaces Karen LaManna as assistant to Andy Bitto. LaManna resigned due to family reasons.

Taylor, now a Grayslake resident, has not hang up the pitching glove all together. You may still see him take the mound now and then for the Zion Dill Brothers, the former Shoreline League power now in a Chicago league.

Carmel is in an upgrade of facilities. The new gymnasium and related facilities received rave reviews after its first year. The baseball field was improved two years ago with new dugouts, and new stands installed.

"The donor wanted the stands to look like the facility at Barrington High," Bitto said.

Taylor's duties will be setting up events. The position covers both boys and girls sports teams.

"The first thing that struck me was how great the kids are here," Taylor said.

And this coming from someone who attended public school all his life.

Cheetahs upset first place Blast

The Chicago Cheetahs move to 4-2 with an 11-10 upset victory over the Minnesota Arctic Blast last night, moving the Cheetahs into third place in the Central Division of the Eastern Conference.

The Cheetahs jumped out to an early 7-1 lead in the first half, sparked by defender Carl Valimont and forward Ron Handy, each with two goals.

The RHI will conduct its first ever All-Star Game on July 9 in Vancouver, B.C. The game will be aired on July 11 on ESPN. Forward Al Secord will represent the Cheetahs in Vancouver.

The Cheetahs are off for the All-Star Break until July 11, when they travel to Philadelphia to face the Bulldogs. The game will be aired live on ESPN2, and will feature a half-time interview with Al Secord, coach Randy Boyd and other Cheetahs players.

The Cheetahs will not be home again until July 19, when they host Atlantic Division leader Montreal Roadrunners.

Chiefs win tourney, squads prepare for post-season

With an eye toward the AAU baseball post-season tourney, the Lake County Chiefs executed when it counted most in winning a McHenry tournament.

The 12-and-under team outlasted McHenry 6-5 in the title game. The host McHenry team had the bases loaded in the sixth inning of the title game, but Mac Mansavage got the final out on a strikeout.

"We were aggressive on the bases and overcame obstacles," Art Mansavage, Chiefs manager, said.

"It was a good, tough battle. McHenry played us really well, but we are peaking at the right time," Tim Nolan, assistant coach, said.

The Chiefs won all five games at the Big Bang tournament.

The Chiefs crushed Gurnee Travelers in the opener 14-4. Steve Ruh was the winning pitcher and he got help from the offense in an 11-hit attack. Mansavage, from Deerfield, had a single and double and Jamie Jankowski of Lake Zurich had a double.

The Chiefs edged McHenry Travelers 6-5 in the second game, with another 11-hit attack. Dustin Dobszaf of Deerfield gained the win with six strikeouts and Mike Bruszer gained the save with another six strikeouts.

The offense kept coming in a 20-hit attack in a 12-5 rout of Northwest Travelers. Mansavage gained the win as he split duties with Dan Renauer of Libertyville.

Ruh led the way against Palatine in a 7-1 Chiefs win. Ruh was 3-for-4 with 3 RBIs. Ruh and Austin Taylor, of Buffalo Grove, shared the pitching duties, combining to strikeout 7 batters.

In the finale against the home team, hits by Ruh, Bruszer, Jankowski and Jason Baker of Libertyville keyed the offense. Baker executed a suicide squeeze for the winning sixth inning run.

Mansavage went three innings, Bruszer and Dobszaf 2 each.

The 11-year-old Chiefs played in two tournaments in preparation for the state playoffs. They finished fourth at Palatine. Eric Grossman led the offense with 11-for-15 and was named all-tourney team.

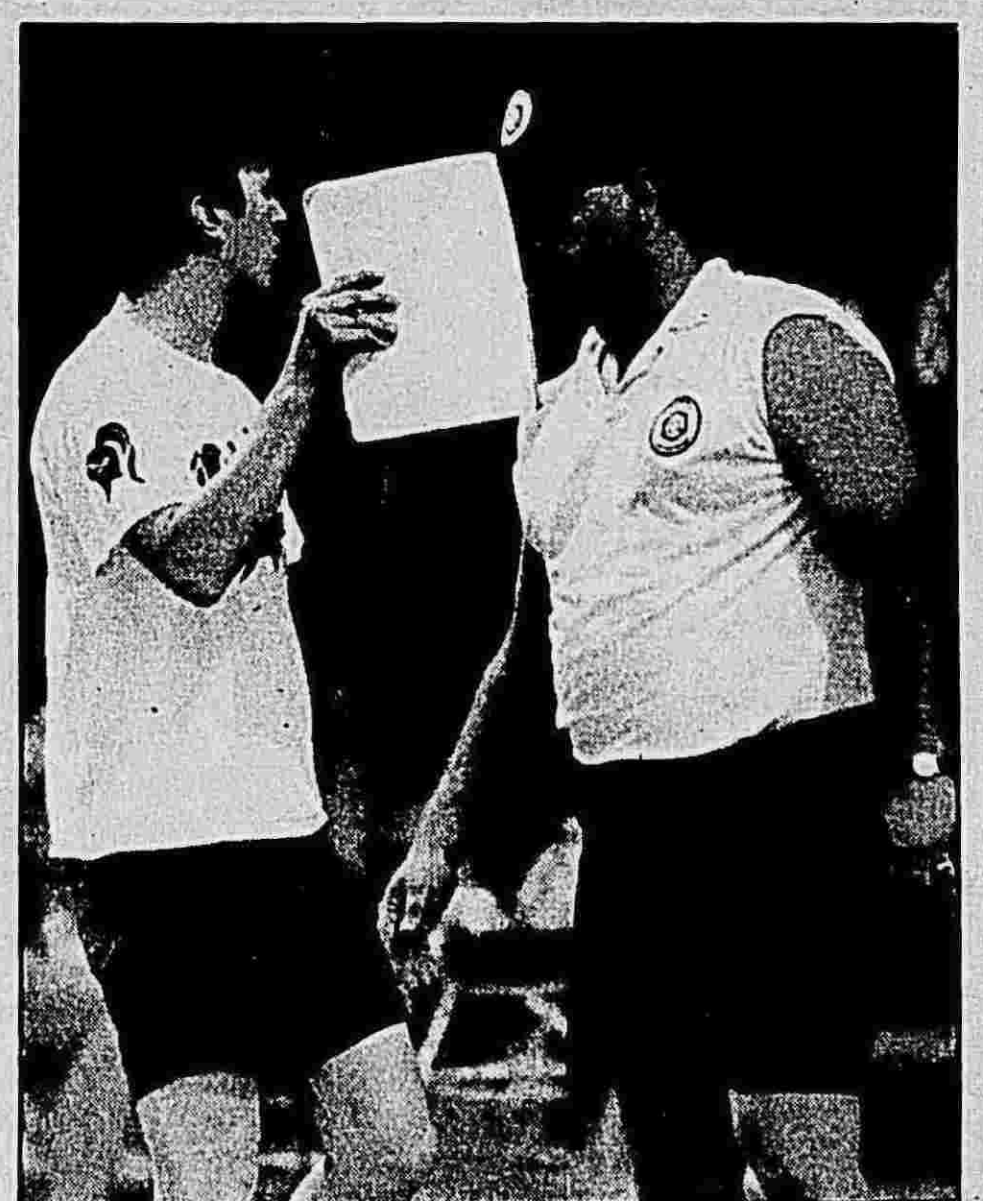

Brett Hall and Scott Collins both pitched 12 innings in the tournament. Alex Ghanton of Riverwoods was a big hitter with 5-for-10 and adding key defensive plays.

The team was second in the Wheeling tourney. Mike Walszak and Collins led the offense.

The AAU state playoff for 10-and-under features Wheeling and Chicago's On Deck team. The 11-year-old and under tourney has six teams competing with the top two going to Kansas City.

The 12-year-old team opened its state tourney at Thiellens Stadium in Chicago Tuesday. They are shooting for a spot in nationals at Burnsville, Minn. Aug. 6-14.

For more information on the AAU tourneys, call Mansavage at 945-9609.

Ostrowski, Surlata, Donat capture checkered flags at Wilmot

Two-time defending champion Lenny Ostrowski, Jr. of North Cape, Wis. scored his first ever-career winged super-modified feature victory on the inaugural "Sizzlin' Summer Nights" Friday Family Fun Night at Toft Auto Racing's Wilmot Speedway on Friday, July 1.

Larry Surlata of Round Lake chalked up his second 15-lap sportsman main win of the season in the Budweiser Racing Series. Larry Donat of Salem, Wis. won his second 15-lap street stock feature in the Car-Min Construction of Waukegan Night program.

Second year competitor Todd Hepfner took the early lead in the super-modified main which was red flagged on lap 2. The stoppage was caused by a multi-car pileup in turn four with heat winner Dave Calnin flipping. Calnin was not injured, however, Kevin Seidler was checked out for back pains and released.

Ostrowski went on to win by a straightway. Hepfner held off fast finishing Donny Goeden for runner up. Last Chance Qualifier "B" Main winner Randy Tracy was fourth, with Gary Dye fifth.

"I have to thank Dustin and Tristin, two young fans who are here and don't normally get to see me race too often," said Ostrowski, joined by his wife Lori, father Len Sr., and crew in victory lane.

Although Ostrowski has two Wilmot crowns, he never won a winged feature before. "After the red flag, when we were seventh, I shot up quickly because I found a lot of bite in the front end of the car. This win means a lot."

Rob Olson took the early lead in the hotly contested sportsman main which was slowed once, on lap two, for a spin. Dave Holden worked inside Olson and the two went side by side around the one-third mile oval for three laps.

With five to go, Holden took the lead with Olson being joined by defending champion Ed

Devall and Surlata in making it a four-way battle.

Surlata decided to go high in his Daimler Autohaus/Jade Construction/Beautiful Bodies Auto Body Camaro, which earlier proved to be Olson's downfall.

At the finish it was Surlata by less than one car length with Holden, Devall, Olson and John Poehler in the top five.

"I really had to work for this one," said Surlata, who had to get a ride to victory lane after forgoing the victory lap and photo due to the car overheating. "I saw Rob lose the lead up high, but Dave is tough to get around on the inside. We had to go for it and we did it."

The only caution in the street stock main on lap 6 failed to deter Donat's focus. Donat took the lead in his Libertyville Lincoln-Mercury Firebird on lap one, splitting a three-wide first turn charge.

Donat was hounded by point leader Lorraine Miles, but was up to the task. Miles' second place finish kept her in the point lead by two points over Donat.

"I have to thank my car owner, Ted Dobner, for buying me this car, the crew and everybody," said Donat. "We've had to worry about staying in the points race, but now that we're this close, maybe we'll go for the challenge."

"The challenge" is the Herb's Used Auto Parts & Sales Street Stock Bonus which stands at $150 on the next Friday Family Fun Night, July 8. To win the challenge, a competitor must win the heat and start at the tail of the feature and win it.

Wilmot Speedway returns to action with the "Sizzlin' Summer Night Series" on Friday Family Fun Night, July 8. Mini-modifieds, mini-sprints and street stocks are on the program along with "Beat Your Neighbor" One-On-One races.

Special Friday admission is $3 for everyone age 12 and older, with all those 11 and under admitted free.

On Saturday, July 9, "Wisconsin's Clay Center of Speed" will host sprints, modifieds and sportsman.

Friday racing begins at 7:30 p.m. with grandstand gates opening at 6 p.m. Saturday gates open at 5 p.m. with the first race at 7 p.m.

MICHAEL FOHRMAN OF FOHRMAN DODGE

Here's a baseball riddle you can have some fun with... How can a team get three triples and three singles in one inning, and still not score a run?... Answer: First two men triple and are out at the plate trying for an inside-the-park homer... Next man triples and stays at third... Next two men get infield singles with the runner holding third... Last man smacks a ground ball that hits runner going from first to second... Batter gets credit for a hit, but runner is out, making three triples, three singles, three outs... and no runs!

Do you have any idea what was the smallest city ever to have a big league baseball team?... Answer is Troy, N.Y... Troy was in the National League from 1879 to 1882.

Here's one hard to believe, but it's true... There was a big league baseball team that was in LAST place as late as Aug. 30 one year... and yet they still won the pennant... The New York Mets were in last place on Aug. 30, 1973— but despite that, they, incredibly, won the pennant that season.

I bet you didn't know... For over 14 years, Fohrman Dodge has been arranging purchase plans for military personnel regardless of pay grade or credit history.

Fohrman Dodge's Award Winning Service Department will handle all your service needs regardless of make, model or where you bought your vehicle.
